TOLD DIRECTOR OF C-D MUST GIVE FULL TIME TO COUNTY JOB

Adams County's Civil Defense program "needs a full-time director," J. Robert Stremmler, Selinsgrove, central area director for the state council of Civil Defense, told the Adams County Commissioners Friday at their meeting in the courthouse.

The county could receive from federal funds one-half of the salary of a full-time C-D director, Stremmler said. Mayor William G. Weaver, present C-D director for the county, cannot be both mayor and C-D director if the county receives federal aid in meeting the salary, Stremmler said. He added, "I have recommended to Bill that he resign as mayor and take up the C-D post full time."

Weaver's refusal to resign as mayor led to the county's losing C-D matching funds for the director's salary two years ago. The county had been approved for federal matching funds but when Weaver became mayor the request was dropped before the county had received any money from the federal government. Weaver had been scheduled for full-time duty as C-D director, but, when it became impossible to secure the federal funds because of his political post, it was decided that he should continue part-time and the county pay him $2,400 a year on a part-time basis.

COUNTY FALLING BEHIND

But because the post is on a part-time basis, the county is "getting behind" in the Civil Defense program, Stremmler held. Supplies are here for the fallout shelters approved by the government in the county, "but so far no shelter managers have been trained for the 22 shelters approved for the county. We admit the number of shelters are not enough but that is all the buildings you have that are eligible. But the point is each shelter is supposed to have a trained manager and sooner or later you commissioners are going to be asked where they are."

The county also should have "about 85" trained volunteers serving as radiological monitors he told the commissioners. The federal government provides the equipment which is kept at homes or other "stations" where the trained radiological personnel are located. The volunteers should (Continued On Page 3)

CANTATA WILL BE PRESENTED AT ST. JAMES

The Senior Choir of St. James Lutheran Church has announced plans for its annual Eastertide cantata, to be presented on Palm Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Scheduled for performance is "Adoramus Te," with music by Joseph W. Clokey and text by Loraine Huntington Miller.

This work takes the form of a cantata for a mixed choir with solos for soprano, alto, tenor and bass. Mrs. Mary Lou Spangler Schwartz will offer the alto solos. Mrs. Schwartz is a native of Gettysburg, a graduate of West Chester State College and Columbia University, and has been a professor of music education at Gettysburg College. Soprano soloist will be Miss Margaret von Thun, Gettysburg College sophomore from Dayton, N. J., and member of the college A Cappella Choir. Serving as tenor soloist will be David Armer, Abington, Pa., a freshman at Gettysburg College. Bass solos will be performed by Ted Gilbert, another native of Gettysburg who is a freshman at the local college as well as a member of St. James Lutheran Church. All of these students are currently students of voice under R. Henry Ackley, associate professor of music at Gettysburg College.

The cantata, a contemporary work, is based upon the Mass, sections of which will be sung in Latin. The entire performance covers the period between Palm Sunday and Easter Day. The composer, Joseph Clokey, was American by birth and died in 1962 after an illustrious career as organist and composer.

This program will be presented under the direction of Donald E. Bollinger, choir director, with the assistance of Robert Baker, organist. Liturgical portions of the program will be supervised by the Rev. Dr. Paul L. Reaser, pastor.

20th Career Day Here Wednesday

Hundreds of sophomores from all of the high schools of the county will assemble at Gettysburg College next Wednesday afternoon for the 20th annual Career Conference which is being sponsored by the Adams County Schoolmen's Association.

With their consultants in scores of occupations and professions, the students will assemble in the college chapel at 1 p.m. for instructions and a brief address and then will divide into groups for classroom conferences with their consultants and teacher group chairmen. Talks and question periods will occupy the next hour.

William Wood Miller of the New Oxford schools is career conference chairman this year.

PLAN SPECIAL SERVICE FOR PALM SUNDAY

Palm Sunday will be celebrated at Trinity Reformed Church on Sunday with a special service of the palms at 10:35 a.m.

The service will open with the annual procession of the palms. The procession leaders are Kurt Booth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hagmeyer, Hoffman Children's Home and Cheryl Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wilson. The Junior and Senior choirs of the church will present special music including the anthems "Hosanna" by Gregor and "Lift Up Your Heads" by Stults. The Rev. Dr. Howard Schley Fox, the pastor, will officiate, preach the sermon on the theme, "The People's Choice," and administer the rite of confirmation on the class of catechumens who have been preparing for church membership for the last six months.

This class was publicly examined before the congregation on Wednesday evening.

Present Pageant Sunday Evening

An Easter pageant, "In Joseph's Garden," will be presented Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Flor's Evangelical Lutheran Church, McKnightstown. Rev. Henry R. Early is pastor. Mrs. Early is the organist.

The cast includes Mrs. Kermit Deardorff as Mary of Bethany; Mrs. Clarence Ketterman, Martha of Bethany; Joan Bucher, Susan McClell and Debra Muselman, Children of Bethany; Michael Keefe, Joe, a servant; Mrs. Sara Keefe, Judith of Arimathea; Curvin Mickley, Joseph of Arimathea; Mrs. John G. Bucher, Mary Magdalene; Mrs. Crowell Bucher, Salome and John Diehl, voice. Steven Redding, Roxy Bream and Diane Bream will sing "In Joseph's Lovely Garden." Diane Bream will appear as the soloist with the choir in the third scene and Vicki Henning will recite "My Wish" prior to the pageant.

The public is invited to attend.

Unemployment Bill Passed By One Vote In A Riotous Session Friday Evening

By JACK LYNCH
Associated Press Writer
HARRISBURG (AP) — The state House of Representatives approved Gov. William W. Scranton's controversial unemployment compensation program Friday night in a riotous session unparalleled in 43 years. With all but a handful of Democrats abstaining from the vote, the principal bill in Republican Scranton's proposal to restore Pennsylvania's sagging U.C. fund was approved 106-14.

Rep. Harold Rudisill, York County Democrat, gave the GOP majority the deciding vote. The state constitution provides that over half of the 210 House members must vote in favor of a bill before it can pass, and Rudisill's vote just made it.

MOST OFF FLOOR

Republican Reps. Richard Green of Cambria County and Thomas H. Worrlow of Delaware County voted against the legislation. Twelve Democrats joined them, but the bulk of the minority was off the floor and not recorded as voting. The Senate-approved bill was sent to Scranton for his signature. He expressed delight over the legislative victory.

BONNEAUVILLE SEEKS TO BE INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DIST.

Bonneauville residents are seeking to have their borough named as an independent school district.

The Adams County court Friday afternoon set April 13 at 10 a.m. as the time for a hearing on a petition signed by 160 residents of the borough asking the new district.

According to the petition filed by Attorney Eugene R. Hartman, the borough at present is divided into two school districts, with those persons residing north of the Gettysburg-Hanover Rd. — Bonneauville's main street — being part of the New Oxford School District, and those residing south of the road being part of the Littlestown Joint School District.

In their petition, the townspeople ask that the borough be established as the Bonneauville Borough Independent School District to enable the people of the town to send all of their children to one school system and have equal taxation as far as school purposes are concerned.

At present children on one side of the main street go to Littlestown and the children directly across the street go to New Oxford, and their parents would pay different tax rates.

The petition claims the establishment of the town as an independent school district would "provide better school facilities for the children."

Mayor Joseph W. Clabaugh signed the petition as testifying to the accuracy of the names listed on the various pages of the petition and stating that the names represent a majority of the taxpayers in both halves of the town. Those who signed designated whether they resided north or south of Route 118.

4 ACTIVITIES PLANNED BY RURIAN CLUB

Plans for a series of community and fund raising activities were advanced at the March dinner meeting of the Hunterstown Ruri- tan Club Friday evening at St. John's United Church of Christ parish hall at New Chester. President Walter Geiman presided.

Events on the club calendar will include an Easter egg hunt at Ruri- tan Park at 2:30 Easter Sunday afternoon for the children of the Hunterstown and New Chester communities and an auction at 7 p.m. April 17 at the park to raise funds to reduce the club's debt on park development work. Refreshments will be on sale at the auction.

There will be a chicken barbecue Saturday, May 16, at the park from 4 to 8 p.m. and advance tickets will be sold. There will also be a rummage sale but the date has not been set.

The club received a report on the rechartered Boy Scout troop in the community which it is (Continued on Page 2)

Holy Week Articles

Next week is Holy Week, the time of year when Christians the world over turn to meditation upon the meaning of life, the teachings of Christ and how they can be applied to their daily lives.

This year The Associated Press commissioned a clergyman to write his thoughts on these appropriate subjects. The author of the five special articles which will be published in The Gettysburg Times next week is Rev. John S. Moore, minister emeritus of the First Reformed Church in Hawthorne, N. J. He is now a guest lecturer in churches of the Classic of the Reformed Church in America of New Jersey.

Rev. Moore is a graduate of the New Brunswick, N. J., Seminary of Rutgers University at New Brunswick, N. J., and a former minister in the Reformed Church of Harlem, in New York City. He served in World War I as an Army sergeant in the famed 367th Regiment in France.

The first article will be published in Monday's edition.

METHODISTS TO RECEIVE 26 PALM SUNDAY

Palm Sunday will be observed at the Methodist Church with the reception of members into the congregation and the annual Lenten choral presentation by the church choir.

Sixteen youths will be received into membership from the preparatory membership classes that have met during Lent for instruction in Christian doctrine and Methodist history. In addition, 10 adults will be received by letter of transfer and on profession of faith.

The Youth Choir under the direction of Miss Mary Alice Nutter will present "God So Loved the World" by Stainer and "Hosanna!" by Gregor. "Jerusalem" by Parker, "The King Rides Forth" by Wilson, Lewandowski's "Psalm 150" and "The Appeal of the Crucified" from Stainer's "The Crucifixion" will be the selections of the Adult Choir. George Heffner, director, Harold Ecker is the organist.

The Methodist Youth Fellowship will hold an Upper Room Communion Service at its regular meeting.

The youth to be received from the membership classes on Sunday are: James Richard Angell, Sue Ellen Clapsaddle, Melanie Ann Deardorff, David Edward Naugle, David Charles Polley, Deborah Lee Reinhart, Thomas Jacob Shoult, Linda Lou Stokes, Kathie Denise Swiger, William Wesley Ayre, Robert Roderick Hoppe, Robert David McClell, Craig Owen, Smith, Kathy Jean Sloops, Samuel Charles Waddell and Kathleen Lois Wilde.

COLLEGE CHOIR SINGS SUNDAY

Palm Sunday service at Christ Lutheran Church at 10:45 a.m. will feature a concert of sacred music by the Gettysburg College Choir, under the direction of Prof. Parker B. Wagnild.

The choir will sing "Tenebrae Factae Sunt: A Great Darkness Fell Over the Earth" by Marc A. Ingneri, "Yes, Though I Wander" by George Schumann, "Hail, Gladdening Light" by Gretchaninoff, "Enite Ton Kyron: Praise Ye, the Lord of Heavens, Alleluiah," a Byzantine chant and "Psalm 134" by Norman Lockwood.

Miss Cynthia Rosenberger, the supply organist, will play as preludes "Entrée Pontificale" by Benoit and "Vexilla Regis" by Titcomb. The offertory will be "The Children of the Hebrew" by Titcomb, and the postlude will be "Fugue in E Minor" by Bach.

Continuing a series of sermons on the Beatitudes, the pastor, Rev. Dr. Robert W. Koons, will speak on "That Peaceful Disturbance."

PAIR HELD HERE

Two California men taken into custody at Waynesboro on a charge of taking a stolen car across state lines were placed in the Adams County jail Friday night by a U.S. marshal preparatory to being returned to California. The men were listed at the local jail as Robert Worman Lemieux and Donald Lee Ressler. The car was reportedly stolen at Long Beach, Calif., and discovered at Waynesboro.

ASSESSMENT PROBLEMS UP AGAIN FRIDAY

The Adams County commissioners Friday afternoon received more information on complete reassessment programs from a professional firm which already has provided reassessments for 27 counties.

Douglas Morrison of Cole, Laver and Trumble Co., Dayton, O., presented a proposal to do the complete reassessment of land and buildings for the county for $130,000. If the company is also to do the field editing of the maps, the cost will be $140,000.

The commissioners also received a proposal from United Appraisal Co. of Cleveland, O., to do the revaluation of lands and buildings for $120,000 and, if the company is also to do the field editing of the maps, cost will be $132,500.

CHECK ON BEDFORD

After the professional firm representatives had left the commissioners' office Friday afternoon, the commissioners telephoned Bedford County which carried out its re-appraisal of properties on its own. Commissioner G. Harrison Fair, who made the call, was told by Bedford authorities that in 1964 that county had received an offer from Cole, Laver and Trumble to do the work of re-assessing the county's 17,000 parcels of land for $120,000. Doing the work on its own, Bedford county has spent $268,000 to date. Fair was told, and the work is not quite complete.

Adams County has about 18,000 to 19,000 parcels of land, the county commissioners estimate.

State law requires that the counties make a complete reappraisal of all properties from time to time. Over the last several years reappraisals of some properties in the county have been completed.

SEE BETTER RESULTS

Seriously considering the possibility of having a complete reappraisal made by a professional concern, the three commissioners noted that if a professional concern does the work "we can get it finished in 18 months and at the speed we are making with local help it might take years and cost just as much, or more."

In addition, they expressed the belief that a professional concern would effect the "equalization" of assessments better than could be done by local help. Since the actual assessing of homes and other properties would take place within a few months' time, all would be assessed at the same time whereas the local system of taking a township or borough at a time leads to the dan-

School Auditorium Filled For Musical

The Gettysburg Junior High School auditorium was jammed Friday evening for the first of the grade school musicals which was presented by more than 600 pupils of the First, Second and Third Grades of the public schools here. The throng of friends and families of the performers enthusiastically applauded the songs, dances and skits presented by the youngsters with the help of specially made scenery. The program was built about highlights of the school year with each grade assigned one section of the calendar.

Mrs. Robert Deardorff and Mrs. John Weaver directed the production assisted by their student teachers, Misses Sally Brinkerhoff and Diane Anderson. Mrs. Merle Eckhart and Richard Krick designed and created the settings for the production. There was music by the grade school orchestra directed by Neil Justice. The annual program by the pupils of the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Grades will be given Friday evening, April 10. The theme that evening will be "Contrasts in Music."

YOUTH, 16, IS BADLY BURNED IN GARAGE FIRE

Investigation continued today into the cause of a grease pit fire at Smith's Garage in Centennial, Hanover R. 4, which badly burned Kenneth J. Gebhart, 16, Hanover R. 4, Friday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock.

The youth, a part-time employee at the garage, was cleaning out the grease pit with gasoline, County Fire Marshal John Murren said he had been told, when flames suddenly engulfed the pit itself.

A customer, Robert Gouker, saw the youth climbing out of the blazing pit. Other employees had been in the paint shop or working on cars some distance from the pit itself and as a result there were no actual witnesses as to what had occurred. James Lawrence, an employee, put out the blaze in the pit while others beat out the fire in Gebhart's clothing.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

The youth was taken to the office of the garage while Dr. A. A. Tananis, McSherrystown, was notified. Other employees then rushed the youth to the physician at McSherrystown and the doctor summoned the Hanover Fire Co. ambulance to take the youth to the Hanover Hospital. There Gebhart was reported suffering from multiple second and third degree burns about the body. While his condition was listed as fair, investigators were not immediately allowed to question him.

The youth is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Gebhart, Hanover R. 4.

Raymond H. Smith, proprietor of the garage, was not at the garage at the time. Centennial firemen summoned to the scene found that Lawrence had extinguished the blaze prior to their arrival. The firemen, from preliminary investigations, "guessed" that a sump pump in the pit may have started while Gebhart was engaged in the cleaning and ignited gas fumes.

Md. Driver, 81, Is Fined After Crash

A Thurmont R. 2 driver was arrested Friday night for reckless driving after his car struck a J. I. Heretier and Son truck on S. Washington St.

George Russell Troxell, the 81-year-old auto driver, paid a fine of $10 and costs on the charge before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder.

Borough Policeman Russell H. Potter said in his report that the truck was parked headed south when the Troxell car smashed into its rear. Damage was estimated at $400 to the car and $40 to the truck.

FARM BRINGS $23,500

The 74-acre farm of Joseph Bedford III, Sarah H. Bedford and Helen L. Strieby, north of Hampton, near Round Hill, in Reading Twp., was sold at sheriff's sale this morning at 10 o'clock at the courthouse. It was bought by the Fraternal Order of PoPiPce, Hanover, for $23,500. It is known as "Honey Locust Farm."

WILL PRESENT SUGGESTIONS TO 2 SCHOOLS

At a meeting of the Liaison Committee representing the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary and the Mt. Airy Seminary, Philadelphia, held in Lancaster Friday recommendations were made for presentation to the two seminary boards.

It had been reported Thursday that the proposed merger of the two schools would be recommended to the biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America in Pittsburgh next July. There was no public mention of whether this question was discussed by the committee Friday.

The committee adopted the following recommendations to be presented to the two boards:

A joint summer session for the teaching of elementary Greek; cooperation in the graduate programs with particular reference to the study of common standards; cooperation in the area of faculty appointments; (1) the joint appointment of some members of the faculty who would work in both schools, (2) collaboration in securing visiting professors, (3) consultation in all appointments to the faculty.

JOINT MEETINGS

Dr. Paul Clouser, Harrisburg, president of the local board, presided.

It was also agreed that there should be joint faculty meetings as frequently as possible beginning next fall. The next meeting will be held in Lancaster April 24.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS

FIRE DESTROYS INTERIOR OF HOME; FAMILY OF 8 ESCAPES

Fire destroyed the interior of the home of Albert E. Kane Jr., in Beecherstown at 6 o'clock this morning driving Mr. and Mrs. Kane and their six daughters from the house.

Arendtsville firemen said the family lost all of its possessions other than clothes hurriedly donned by the eight Beecherstown residents as they fled the structure. The firemen asked that donations of clothing for the parents and the girls, aged five to 19, be left at the Arendtsville fire house. The Gettysburg fire house was also named as a depository for any gifts of clothing that might be left there.

The 19-year-old daughter, Carole, aroused the family about 6 o'clock this morning when she awoke to find smoke filling her room on the first floor of the house, and fire breaking through the ceiling.

BLAME WIRING

Firemen said wiring may have been the cause of the blaze. They described the place as "with the four walls standing and most of the roof." The fire resistant shingle siding kept the fire confined to the interior of the house where it destroyed rooms and furnishings.

The family fled to the home of Charles W. Hykes, about 50 yards away. Because the fire was confined within the Kane home it did not threaten the neighboring house.

A preliminary estimate of loss set damage at "between $8,000 and $10,000," according to the report to the Quick Call Center here. It was not known if the family had insurance to cover the damage.

"VERY FORTUNATE"

Because of the rapid spread of the fire, the family was described as "very fortunate to escape without any injury." All members of the family were sleeping downstairs in the story-and-a-half bungalow-type house.

Usually the two younger children sleep upstairs, according to the report.

The six children are Debbie, aged 5; Laurie Ann, 6; Vicki, 11; Barbara, 13; Sandy, 15, and Carole, 19. The girls are all described as tall for their ages and slender. Mr. Kane, who is employed at the Glenn L. Bream garage here, was described as "over six feet" and slender. Mrs. Kane wears a size 16 dress.

HAVE NO PLANS FOR QUARRYING IN FAIRFIELD

Hamiltonban Twp. residents and the township supervisors met Friday evening at the Fairfield National Bank to discuss the possibility of quarrying in the area east of Fairfield.

John D. Teeter, of Teeter Inc., said that his company has no present plans to quarry in the "triangle" formed by the Gettysburg-Fairfield Rd., the Fairfield-Orrtanna Rd. and the Bull Frog Rd.

The meeting had been called when test drillings were made within the triangle by Teeter, Inc. Homes have been built along the three sides of the triangle.

MAY IN FUTURE

Teeter said he could not, however, guarantee that in years to come quarrying might not be done in that triangle, but that "it will not be done in my lifetime."

He added that quarrying in other areas of the farm bought by the Teeter Co., of which the land within the triangle is part, will not start for "at least six months."

Discussion at the meeting indicated the possibility of a township ordinance which would prohibit quarrying within a "reasonable distance" of homes. Discussed also was the possibility of the township setting up a zoning ordinance.

No immediate action was taken by the supervisors who reported they plan to "study the matter further."

TO TALK ON COINS

"Coins During the Life of Christ" will be the theme for a talk by Paul Peel, Seminary student, at the weekly dinner meeting of the Gettysburg Lions Monday evening at 6 o'clock at the Varsity Diner. Lions are asked to bring donations of green trading stamps to the meeting to help secure a station wagon for Beacon Lodge for the blind.

Two Youths Defect To U.S. After Hijacking 'Copter, Killing Pilot

By THEODORE A. EDIGER
KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The bloody hijacking of a Cuban military helicopter by two youths defecting to the United States was under tight federal investigation today.

The body of the pilot, with six bullet holes, lay in a morgue in Key West where the Russian-made helicopter landed Friday from Havana.

The two anti-Castroites who engineered the bizarre death battle over the Atlantic were taken to Miami for questioning by immigration authorities. Transported separately to Miami for U.S. grilling was a mechanic aboard the helicopter who said he wanted to return to Cuba.

LONG QUESTIONING

Authorities indicated the questioning might take days. When the drab green helicopter landed at Key West International Airport the mechanic, Sergio Roque, 17, started running. He was caught 1,200 feet from the craft.

The hijackers — Guillermo Santos and Andres Izaguirre — told police they commandeered the copter shortly after it left Havana under a plan they had plotted carefully in advance. They told the pilot, Jose Marcia, to fly to the United States. When he refused, the shooting broke out.

A sheriff's deputy reported that while all shots appeared to have been fired from Santos' gun there was indication of a struggle between the pilot and his self-imposed copilot.

Santos, a regular Army pilot, said he took the controls for the flight to Key West.

"DISARMED THEM"

There was no word on whether Navy jets scrambled to meet the copter as it flew into Key West.

The manager of the Key West airport, George Faraldo, said he ran to meet the helicopter. As he sprinted across the field, the two men inside drew their pistols, he said.

HAVE FUNDS TO AID RURAL FOLK IN DISTRESS

The Farmers Home Administration now has funds available to help distressed rural and farm families, according to an announcement of Daniel A. Paddock, county supervisor for Adams and York Counties. He said this phase of the FHA is another means of combating rural poverty in USA.

Mr. Paddock recently attended an area meeting at Lancaster where he was advised FHA authorities now provide for making loans to small part-time farmers.

He explained these loans are available to persons on small farms with limited facilities who desire to improve their income or living standards. He said the family might need only a cow, a couple of steers, a few sheep or hogs, or some equipment that would enable them to have a better food supply. Persons on many small farms in the area who have limited income such as a pension, or part-time work, and those having physical handicaps can be considered.

In addition, he said low interest, long time loans may be made to farm or rural families to make needed repairs to buildings to provide safe, sanitary and decent living conditions.

He pointed out that these authorities are aimed at combating rural poverty and it is the desire of FHA to help all such families that qualify.

The FHA office is located in the Adams Electric Co-operative building, rear of N. Stratton St.

County Man Fined In Chambersburg

Admitting that he permitted an intoxicated person to operate his car, George W. Woodring, Fairfield R. 1, was sentenced to pay a $100 fine and the prosecution costs Friday morning when he appeared before Judge Chauncey M. Deput in Franklin County court, Chambersburg.

Woodring was the third occupant of a car involved in an accident in the Blue Ridge Summit area on February 24 to appear before Judge Deput. Previously, two of the occupants had appeared in court to plead guilty to drunken driving charges. In addition, one also pleaded guilty to a hit-and-run charge and the other to a driving-under-suspension charge.

As owner of the car, Woodring admitted Friday morning that he permitted one of the two others—John B. Reese—to drive the car while he was intoxicated. He denied that he permitted the other man—Homer S. Bobo—to drive.

Friends To Furnish Room At Library

The Friends of the Library will help furnish the children's room in the new addition to the Adams County Public Library, it was decided Friday evening at a meeting of the group at the main library on E. High St. Mrs. LeRoy H. Winebrenner, the president, presided.

The organization also said it will purchase draperies and several coat racks for use in the library.

The Friends of the Library will sponsor a production by the Gettysburg Players July 21-23 and Mrs. Frank Hewetson, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, discussed plans for a Christmas bazaar to be held late in the fall. She said anyone who wishes to make articles for sale there should contact her. Proceeds will go to the library.

Go To Pittsburgh For Band Festival

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Postmaster General John A. Gronouski, speaking in Wichita, Kan., told 1,600 postmasters from three states that if they ignore new management techniques to cut postal costs, "by the year 2,000 we will be using 15-cent stamps rather than five-cent stamps."

INVITE ADAMS FARMERS TO GO ON OHIO TOUR

Adams County's farmers generally were invited today to take part in the Adams County livestock tour scheduled to be held April 1 to 3 to Sandusky County, Ohio.

Arranged by the livestock group, participation at first was limited to livestock breeders and their families. When it was determined today that only a dozen livestock breeders can make the trip, it was opened to all farmers generally and their wives who may wish to make the trip.

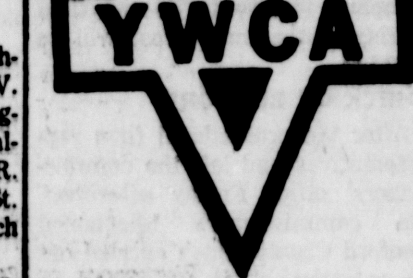

Those planning to take part in the tour are asked to notify the county agricultural extension office by Monday at 4 p.m.

The three-day tour will leave here at approximately 7:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, April 1, and travel to Fremont, O., on the edge of Sandusky County, where the group will stay at a hotel over night.

On Thursday, April 2 the group will tour five beef cattle feeding operations, a hog feeding operation, a dairy operation, a fruit operation and will visit the Whirlpool Corporation factory. That evening the countians will be guests at the home of the livestock feeders of Sandusky County.

April 3 the group will return to Gettysburg, anticipating its arrival here at 6 o'clock that night. Transportation per person will be $14. Lodging will be $5. Other costs, for meals, etc., will be up to each individual who may spend as much or as little as he wishes.

The bus schedule for the trip will accommodate 40 persons. Crowell Bucher, Gettysburg R. D.; Francis Weikert, Fairfield R. D.; and Horace Frey, Abbottstown, are the tour committee.

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China declared today the United States has lost ground in Latin America since President Johnson entered the White House and communism is continuing to score successes.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen said today he is beginning to doubt there will be any vote in the civil rights battle until after Easter.

Dirksen told a reporter he sees no sign of a lessening of the Southern oratory which has stalled for two weeks a motion to take up the House-passed bill.

When the debate began on March 9, civil rights supporters were confident of a vote on the motion by March 18. Earlier this week they fixed their hopes on March 25. But in advance of another Saturday session today, Dirksen questioned whether even the second date would be met.

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—South Viet Nam protested today that Cambodian fighters shot down an American-piloted Vietnam plane. However, it apologized for the air attack on a Cambodian border village during which the unarmed spotter plane went down.

The stiff protest issued by the Saigon government was expected to strain still further relations between the two Indochinese neighbors, long in dispute over their ill-defined border.

Charging that 16 Cambodians were killed in the air attack, Cambodia has postponed peace talks scheduled with South Viet Nam this weekend. The United States has warmly supported these negotiations in hopes of keeping neutralist Cambodia out of the beckoning arms of Red China.

Church Will Use Latin In Top Acts

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI said Friday the Roman Catholic Church will keep Latin for its official acts while recognizing the value of modern languages in other church matters.

Referring to the Vatican Ecumenical Council's 1963 decree on public worship, which will eventually bring about substitution of modern languages for Latin in much of the Mass, the Pope said the council "recognized the equal dignity of the vernacular languages in proclaiming the word of God and in the liturgical cult."

OVER 3,500 ADAMS PUPILS TO HAVE ETV

More than 3,500 school children in Adams County already are assured of participation in the educational television program that will go on the air from Hershey next September 2 for a nine-county area including this county.

That figure was revealed at a meeting of the board of directors of the South Central Educational Broadcasting Council at Hershey when officers for the next year were elected and an operating budget of $246,880 was approved for 1964-65.

Reports showed that reports have been received covering 107,479 school children in the nine counties and that 87 per cent of them will be offered the ETV program beginning in September. More than half of the districts are yet to be heard from.

COULSON ATTENDS

Upper Adams, Lower Adams and Fairfield schools are listed as participating and news reports have placed Conewago Twp. on the list also, although it was not included in the report to the board.

In the current fund raising efforts throughout the nine-county area aimed at raising $250,000, reports showed $100,281 has been secured.

Adams County Superintendent of Schools M. Francis Coulson, who was one of the organizing vice presidents of the ETV council and was chairman of its constitution committee, attended the board meeting at Hershey.

NEW OFFICERS

The staff of new officers includes: President, Woodrow Brown, York city school superintendent; first vice president, Bruce Connor, assistant county superintendent in Cumberland County; second vice president, Harry Gerlock, Lancaster County superintendent; secretary, A. G. Bridenstine, dean of Millersville State College; assistant secretary, Gilmore Seaves, Shippensburg State College; treasurer, Oscar Lingle, Central Dauphin school director, and assistant treasurer, John Hershey, superintendent of the Milton Hershey School at Hershey.

York County Superintendent Joseph Wilson reported on progress being made by the program committee he heads. Adams County Assistant Superintendent George B. Inskip is a member of his committee.

"THE FACE OF SPRING"

The frowns of the winter . . . are changing to smiles . . . and now barren roadways . . . become emerald lanes . . . sprigs of grass and wild flowers . . . pave every path . . . and there's hardly a sign . . . of winter's aftermath . . . fast asleep brooks . . . are now rolling along . . . and here and there . . . robins burst into song . . . the sun rises from . . . its bed in the sky . . . warming the earth . . . with its rays from on high . . . mankind awakens . . . slowly but sure . . . spring is a tonic . . . a magical cure . . . so every year . . . nature's destined to bring . . . joy that's reflected . . . on the face of spring.

Two Post $5,000 Each For Court

Two men, from Adams and Berks Counties, were held for York County court Thursday following a hearing before Justice of the Peace Dayne E. Garrett, Hanover, on charges of receiving stolen goods, offering for sale a motor vehicle with defaced or altered manufacturer's numbers and conspiracy.

James E. Tewney, 44, of 46 W. Middle St., waived his preliminary hearing and posted $5,000 bail for court appearance.

A hearing was held for Winfield S. Overley, Sinking Springs, near Reading, and Justice Garrett said a prima facie case had been established. He also was released on $5,000 bail.

Prosecuting officer was Opl. Robert Brady of the Gettysburg state police.

Opl. Brady said the charges stemmed from an attempted sale of a 1963 Cadillac automobile in Hanover February 6.

ASSESSMENT

ger of higher assessments in some sections compared to others.

Bedford County officials told the local commissioners on the phone Friday that their experience showed that "it's a mistake" to have one man go out and do the complete assessment on a property. Bedford started that system and then switched to a three-step program by which one man takes measurements and gathers other information concerning properties, returns with that material which is handled by another clerk in setting up the cards for the properties. A third then makes the actual final assessment for each property.

"Thus three viewpoints are included in the assessment of each property and we find this works for fairer results all along the line."

The system to be followed by the professional firms, as described by the representatives who visited here, follows much the same procedure with one group of men making the actual measurements, another group looking over the houses and farms for an overall picture and a third making the field checks on the maps.

WOULD TRAIN COUNTEAN

Adams County's own map making group would continue making the maps of each property during the reassessment if a professional concern carries out the other work. Morrison told the commissioners Friday that his concern in making up the assessments, assesses each building on each property separately so that if there is change in the future it is a simple matter to change the assessment. Morrison also promised to train one man to be named by the commissioners who would remain here after the work was finished to continue the assessment work into the future as new buildings are constructed, old ones removed, properties are divided, etc.

The proposed "Adams County man" would work for Morrison and be paid by them during the period of the reassessment, according to the discussion.

Tot Locks Mother In Clothes Closet

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Mrs. Darlene Dietrich, 20, was in a closet at home Friday when her 2-year-old daughter slammed the door.

Mrs. Dietrich tried to open the door. She couldn't. Then she kicked the wall—again and again and again. Finally she smashed through a small hole. She started to crawl through. Then she stuck.

She took a clothes hanger, bent it into a hook, snagged her telephone, dragged it to her and called for help. Firemen and policemen arrived. It was about four hours from door-slam to freedom.

Mrs. Dietrich was treated at a hospital and released.

POLICE CHIEF TO GET HEARING

Mayor Edward DeCheubell of McSherrystown has disclosed that a special borough council meeting will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in the municipal building, Main St., McSherrystown, for a hearing on the suspension of Chief of Police Marnard Masemer.

Mayor DeCheubell confirmed that Chief Masemer was suspended March 9 for two weeks pending Monday's hearing.

The suspension, the mayor said, was for "neglect of duty."

Borough Solicitor Ronald Hagarman said he will attend the meeting "only to rule on procedure." He added that the hearing will be the only item on the agenda for Monday's session.

Presentation of petitions asking reinstatement of Masemer will not be permitted, Hagarman said. Such petitions have been circulated in the community, residents of McSherrystown reported.

Attorney Hagarman said council has the choice of continuing the suspension, reinstating Masemer or dismissing him, depending upon what is brought out at the hearing.

Induct 2 Students Into Honor Society

Two students from Mount Saint Mary's College, Emmitsburg, have been inducted into the Alpha Rho Chapter of Lambda Iota Tau, the international honor society for students of English and foreign literature, according to Prof. Bernard S. Kalis, of the English department at the college and international moderator of the society.

The two students are: C. Gordon Henderson, Baltimore, and Philip H. Kelly, Marion, Ohio. As a requirement for induction into the group, the student must prepare an original paper. Henderson's paper was entitled, "James Baldwin as Propagandist" and Kelly's work was "The Literary Quarrel Between Byron and Southey."

NCCW MEETS IN LEBANON APR. 6

Mrs. Ted Tussing, president of the St. Francis Xavier Parish Council of Catholic Women, informed members at a meeting Thursday evening, that the diocesan convention of the National Council will be held at Lebanon Catholic High School April 6. Rev. Joseph A. Bradley, spiritual moderator, will speak. Workshops on various themes will be held and Mrs. Tussing expressed the hope that the local group would be represented at each of the workshops.

Mrs. Edwin Killalea, libraries and literature chairman, reported on the drive being conducted for additional books for the school library. Mrs. James Sneeinger, youth chairman, told about the successful Girl Scout Community breakfast recently held. Eighteen Girl Scouts received Holy Communion as a body and, following Mass, they were joined by 61 parents at a Communion breakfast in the school cafeteria at which Rev. John Wildeman spoke.

Miss Anna McSherry, chairman of cooperation with Catholic Charities, reported on visits to the sick.

Mrs. Charles Pitzer reported the following officers will be installed at the May meeting: Mrs. Marcus Ritter, president; Mrs. Hermann Frash, vice president; Mrs. Mark Steinour, secretary, and Mrs. Charles Kerley, treasurer.

Mrs. Tussing announced the activities planned for May in conjunction with the Mothers' Club. Members of the two organizations will leave by bus at 6:30 p.m. May 14, to visit the Grotto at Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg. Holy Mass will be offered at 7 o'clock at the Grotto, after which the group will return to the school cafeteria for a catered supper.

After the business meeting, Rev. William Bridy, diocesan director of Catholic Charities, spoke on a phase of Catholic charities work in the diocese. Coffee and tea were served by Mrs. George F. Eberhart, Mrs. Bertha Culp and Mrs. Joseph Heiney.

Prisoner Is Freed For Grandmother

MANILA (AP)—The wish of a woman said to be 111 years old to see her grandson freed from prison before she dies has been granted by President Diosdado Macapagal.

Macapagal signed a conditional pardon for Aristotele O. Rosales, sentenced in 1960 to serve 4 to 10 years for assault. The move had been recommended by the parole board.

Youth Takes Life By Electrocutation

TOKYO (AP)—A 17-year-old student electrocuted himself Friday with two copper plates and a time switch.

Police said Yuji Sakakibara attached one copper plate over his heart and another to his back with a wire. The wire was connected to the time switch. Yuji's family said he recently suffered a slight nervous breakdown.

County Youth At Pocono Conference

More than 270 young adults from Pennsylvania and neighboring states are attending the 1964 Pocono Conference for Young Adults.

The conference, sponsored by the Extension Service of Pennsylvania and New York, is being held at The Inn, Buck Hill Falls, today through Sunday. Featured speaker at the 1964 conference will be Dr. Kenneth D. Wells, president of the Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge. Dr. Wells, recipient of many honors and awards for his distinguished service, will speak on "Are We All Together on Patriotic Fundamentals?"

Conference workshops will focus on the theme "All Together Now . . . for Effective Citizenship Through Democratic Leadership." Topics of the workshop include: "Your Role as a Leader; as a Follower"; "You as an Ambassador"; "What Makes a Young Adult Program Click"; and "Idea Consciousness."

Attending from Adams County are Miss Martha Hikes, York Springs; David Lott, Gettysburg; Sally Brown and David Slusser, Littlestown. Mr. and Mrs. Duane G. Duncan are accompanying the group.

TOLD DIRECTOR

report weekly on the radiological levels in their areas in order to be ready for any emergency.

"We don't know when there will be an emergency. We do know that trucks containing radioactive wastes travel through the state, and probably through this county. They don't have any signs on them identifying them. But if one has an accident, your trained radiological monitors should be ready to meet the problem. Police or firemen could receive a lethal dose of radiation without knowing it." He also noted that planes carrying atom bombs are constantly flying over and "every precaution is taken to insure that nothing will happen. But accidents do happen, and if they do many lives could be saved by the monitoring equipment."

URGE CONTINUITY PLAN

The county should have a command center for use in time of emergency, "and your quick call room at the engine house will not give any protection from fallout. If you had that type of emergency it could not be used." He noted that CD Director Weaver has been planning installation of a fallout shelter "command center" when remodeling of the engine house occurs.

The area CD head also urged the commissioners to "name your successors under the relocation of government rule" approved at the last election. He advised the commissioners to meet with their solicitor in setting up arrangements for "continuity of government" in case anything should happen to them in time of emergency.

COUNTY HAS BENEFITED

Stremmler said the law provides for an order of succession which permits the county government to continue even though it might lose officials and have to move out of the county, but the commissioners must establish the succession in order to make the transfer in case of emergency legal.

The state official said that Adams County from 1952 to 1963 secured $192,401 in matching funds to meet amounts expended for Civil Defense purposes.

Included was radio equipment and fire equipment in the early phases of the program. The county itself did not expend the entire matching amount. Local subdivisions and, in cases of fire equipment, fire companies met the local share of the cost.

SEEK WAREHOUSE SITE

Stremmler and Col. James R. Riley, assistant area director for the Central Area Headquarters of the State Council of Civil Defense, who accompanied him, promised to write the commissioners a letter detailing the matching funds available if the county increases its Civil Defense program and listing CD programs the state would like the county to implement.

Before meeting with the Civil Defense officials, the commissioners met with Frederick C. Tice, regional representative of the Bureau of Industrial Development of the state Department of Commerce.

Tice had with him G. T. Ludwig, of Connecticut, who was representing a midwest concern which plans to establish a $3,000,000 warehouse in this area. The two had already contacted Franklin County for details on its tax structure, etc., and were querying Adams County officials as part of a general survey to be made prior to determination of the site for the warehouse.

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—The Radical party has decided to pull out of the pro-Western coalition government of President Jorge Alessandri.

Party leaders announced Friday night the decision to withdraw from democratic coalition formed five years ago with the rightwing Conservatives and Liberals.

Gettysburg Schools Report

National Study of Secondary Schools—Evaluation Organization—The Visiting Committee

During the past year the staff of the Gettysburg Area Senior High School has been participating in a thorough examination of the total school program at the high school level.

The complete evaluation of any secondary school as recommended by the National Study of Secondary Schools requires the services of a visiting committee of educators.

The visiting evaluation committee, selected by the Middle States Association, will review the high school program during a three-day visit—April 8, 9 and 10.

The purpose of the visiting committee is to provide a check on the self-evaluation carried out by the school staff. This check is necessary if the evaluation is to be used in an accreditation or approval process and valuable when the evaluation is used to interpret the work of the school to the community.

The following educators will be members of the visiting evaluation committee: Thomas W. Pyles, state Department of Education, Baltimore; Wayne H. Mong, Peabody High School, Pittsburgh; Alfred H. Ayres, Brandywine Heights High School, Tipton, Pa.; Lawrence Byron, Francis McKure Junior High School, McKeesport; John G. Clements, Cedar Cliff High School, Camp Hill; Richard G. Creasey, Central Dauphin High School, Harrisburg; W. Reed Ernst, Camp Hill High School, Camp Hill; John J. Ferdi-an Jr., Bonboro Senior High School, Bonboro, Md.; Edna Harter, Berwick Senior High School, Berwick; Mrs. Marian Fersler, Pottsville High School, Pottsville; Margaret McGeever, Blue Mountain Joint High School, Cressona; John Johnson, James Buchanan High School, Mercersburg; Harry Kirk, Mechanicsburg Area Senior High School, Mechanicsburg; Mrs. Kathryn Leber, Fulton County Schools, McConnellsburg; Miss Mary Lou Merkle, Carlisle Senior High School, Carlisle; William Porter, Big High School, Newville, and Cyrus Rothberg, Rose Tree Union School District, Lima, Pa.

CHECK GENERAL AREAS

Each member of the visiting committee is responsible for checking evaluations and making recommendations in at least one of the following general areas: Philosophy and objectives, program of studies, student activity program, instructional material services, guidance services, health services, school plant and school staff and administration.

Each member of the visiting committee is also assigned to at least one and more likely two subject area subcommittees. The subcommittee members responsible for the subject matter areas will carefully check all evaluation questions noting the strengths and weaknesses of the subject field.

The investigating techniques used by members of the evaluating committee are a thorough review of all data, formal conferences with staff members, classroom observations, student conference and informal inquiry.

The visit of a committee is a highly professional undertaking. Members of the committee will observe, visit and inquire for the purpose of getting a comprehensive view of the work of the school as is possible in the time available.

Overheated Switch Box In Chapel Organ: The Gettysburg Fire Department was called at 10:30 o'clock Thursday night when a fuse box shorted and overheated in the organ at the Church of the Abiding Presence on the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary campus. Firemen said the short had caused the box to become extremely hot, the door to the box was charred on the inside and insulation on the wires was smoldering. The firemen loosened the wires from the fuse box, thus ending the short circuit and added that had the "short" occurred later in the night and gone on undetected a serious fire could have resulted.

List Four Entries in Queen Contest: Four local girls have entered the Queen contest for the Gettysburg Lions Club's charity fund benefit show to be presented March 29, 30 and 31 at the Gettysburg High School auditorium. It was announced today by Dr. Donald Wickerham, chairman of the contest committee.

The first entrants are Joan Sherman, Mrs. Doris Sanders, Vickie Maust, and Valjo Bender. The contest will close on March 27 and the queen will be crowned during the Lions' show. Runners-up will be attendants in the queen's court. First prize is the honor of being queen and a diamond ring.

The contest is open to any girl in the county from 7th grade through 21 years of age. Girls interested in competing should contact Dr. Wickerham. Voting boxes marked with pictures of the contestants will be placed in business places throughout the community. Proceeds of the contest will go to the charity fund.

Roy P. Funkhouser, Head of Victor Products Corp., Dies Suddenly Monday: Roy P. Funkhouser, 67, died Monday night at 10:30 o'clock at his home on W. Lincoln Ave. of a ruptured aorta, Dr. C. G. Crist, county coroner, said.

The president of the Victor Products Corporation of Pennsylvania had been in ill health since Sunday. He had returned March 12 from a two-month trip to Florida.

A native of Sleepy Creek, Morgan County, W. Va., where he was born in 1886, he was a son of the late Newton E. and Mollie E. (Lowman) Funkhouser. He received his early schooling in Big Pool, Md., and then graduated from Winchester (Va.) High School and Shenandoah College, Dayton, Va.

Moving to Gettysburg 41 years ago, he was a partner in the Funkhouser and Sachs clothing store on Lincoln Square, and later operated the store himself.

Sometime later he was appointed receiver for the Surefoot Heel and Rubber Co. here, which later became the Victor Products Corporation of Pennsylvania.

Surviving are two children, Mrs. Roy M. Small, Hagerstown, and Mrs. John Millard, Gettysburg; three grandchildren, and the following brothers and sisters: Raymond J. Funkhouser, Pioneer Point Farms, Centerville, Md.; Elmer M. Funkhouser, Hagerstown; Mrs. Malcolm Hensley, Big Pool, Md., and Mrs. Lynn W. Myers, Hartsdale, N. Y.

Today's Talk

DEMANDS

One of the reasons why we do often lose faith in ourselves, falling even far below our good par, is that we do not make high enough demands upon ourselves. We play around with our lower demands. We look up our best talents, making them useless, and put to use only those common talents that are almost universal.

The people whom we admire and look up to most, however, are those who have made great demands upon themselves — almost whipped themselves into great action — often to their physical hurt and harm. But they are the leaders. Often they die all too young — but not until having lived a full and extended life of genuine service.

In reading the lives of many of our greatest poets and writers, industrialists and others, it is difficult to believe that they did so much in so short a time. They willed demands upon themselves until those demands drove them to their goals — and high ones, at that!

We often resent the demands that outside sources make upon us, but of vastly greater importance is it that we do not demand too little of ourselves. It is highly important that we keep on good terms with ourselves, so that we may not resent our inner urges, but rather listen to them and answer their call.

Unemployment of mind is far more tragic than unemployment of the body, the hands, or the eyes. When the mind takes a long sleep, all else concerned with this bodily life becomes still and static, and might just as well have been not at all.

We still have wars because the demands for peace and good will among men have never been cried loud enough in the world. But when wars come the demands shoot to high heaven. And to bring peace back again we pay with our lives and our precious substance. Could anything be less intelligent?

Why should any of us pursue a way of life that somehow makes no serious demands upon us? Do we fear our fate too much not to dare to put to the test every possible demand — to gain or lose all?

Just Folks

UNCHANGABLE

I hold that spring will always be Aglow with tender greenery
And tulips row by row;
That twenty thousands years away
The apple blossom time in May
Will be a joy to know.

By many a door in summer time
Will crimson ramblers climb,
And children romp in play
And women-folks will work and plan
To get up meals to please a man
Just as they do today.

With all that men shall build and make
For comfort's or advancement's sake,
For beauty or for gain,
Beneath the sheltering eaves will nest
In spring the robins, red of breast,
Again and yet again.

Thought customs change and nations fall,
Young men on pretty girls will call,
And sigh their love to claim,
And twenty thousand years away
The things which make men sad and gay
Will be about the same.

Moscow Income Below Its Goals

MOSCOW (AP)—The City Council reported Thursday it received more than 5,000 complaints from Muscovites about dry cleaning, laundry, shoe repair and auto service last year. Because of these and other falldowns, the capital achieved only 97.7 per cent of its planned income for 1963. The council tax income fell $4.99 million short of the assigned goal. This was no surprise to Muscovites, who find it almost impossible to get a taxi at night.

SAYS PRISONS ARE DISGRACE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Convict Robert Stroud, famed as the Birdman of Alcatraz, said in his will that today's prisons are a disgrace and that he wants his estate used to design a better one.

Stroud, whose will was filed for probate Friday, died last Nov. 21 in the Springfield, Mo., federal prison at the age of 73. He had spent most of his adult life in prisons after conviction for two murders.

He became an expert on birds and bird diseases while in solitary confinement and gained fame from the book "Birdman of Alcatraz," written by Thomas E. Gaddis. A movie also was made, based on Stroud's prison life.

Stroud's estate consists of a $447.84 uncashed check and a 40 per cent interest in royalties from the book "Birdman of Alcatraz." He left everything to his sister, Mrs. Mamie Stroud Shaffer, 80, of Metropolis, Ill. But the will said his sister's needs are not great and that if his estate could be used to design a better prison, that's what he'd like done with it.

Officers Stop Sale Of Mummy Body

BRUSSELS (AP)—The prosecutor's office Friday overruled two policemen who had stopped an art gallery from selling a 3,000-year-old Egyptian mummy because "you can't sell a corpse."

An office spokesman told the protesting gallery director that mummies could legally be sold as works of art and the policemen had shown "too much zeal."

The Lenten Story

THE SON OF GOD

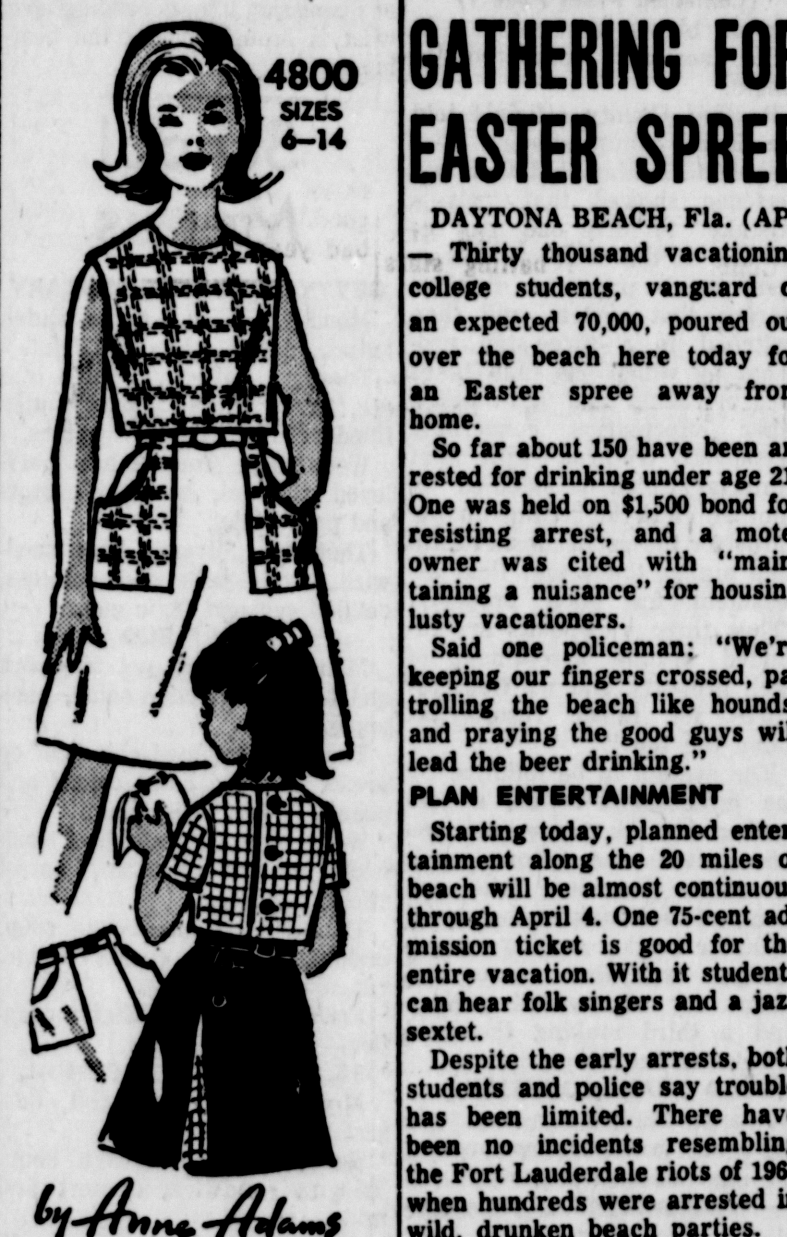

While Jesus hung in agony from His cross, passersby on the Hill of Calvary jeered and hooted. "If Thou art the Son of God, come down from the cross," they cried, shaking their fists.

Similarly, the chief priests and elders mocked Him, saying, "He saved others, but He cannot save Himself." At the ninth hour, Jesus cried out with a loud voice and gave up His spirit. Matthew tells us about that terrible time:

"And behold, the curtain of the temple was torn in two from top to bottom; and the earth quaked, and the rocks were rent, and the tombs were opened, and many bodies of the saints who had fallen asleep arose..."

"Now when the centurion, and those who were with him keeping guard over Jesus saw the earthquake and the things that were happening, they were very much afraid, and they said, 'Truly, this man was the Son of God.'" Matthew XXVII:51-54

Authorities Press Hunt For Slayer

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—Authorities are questioning sex offenders with police records in their hunt for the killer of a nine-year-old girl.

The victim, Marise Chiverella was found dead Wednesday in an abandoned strip mine four miles north of here, bound and gagged.

Authorities also said they interviewed high school pupils who were absent from school when the child was raped and strangled. Police believe the killer enticed the girl into a car as she walked to school.

SHORTAGE OF SUGAR HELPS CUBA ECONOMY

EDITOR'S NOTE—Cuba's financial deals are puzzling to outsiders: The sugar crop is bad and yet Cuba has money to buy British buses. Here's an explanation by a veteran observer of the Latin American scene.

By BEN F. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Big economic troubles still plague Fidel Castro in Cuba, but he will have more money to spend abroad for urgently needed goods than he has had in several years.

As if this were not enough of a paradox, the reason he has more money is that under the Communist system the production of sugar — Cuba's biggest dollar earner — has been going from bad to worse. The Cuban crop has been so bad it has helped put sugar prices up so high that Castro's dictatorship now gets more money for a poor crop than it did for a good one.

MONEY FOR BUSES

That's where the money came from which Castro is using to buy buses in England, machinery and supplies in France and Japan, and is dangling before other friends of Uncle Sam to tempt them to do more business with Cuba.

Washington clings to its theory that its economic boycott is making things tougher and tougher for the bearded prime minister.

In 1963, the short crop in Cuba and reduced yields in Europe put sugar prices at their highest in years. U.S. officials say the outlook for 1964 is not nearly so bright from the Cuban viewpoint.

For one thing, they estimate the high prices cut world sugar consumption.

SPREAD REPORTS

In addition, the world price recently has been around 7 cents a pound, against a peak of 16 cents and an average of about 8.5 cents in 1963.

Curiously, some pessimistic reports on Cuban production have been coming out of Cuba, and some traders wonder if the Castro regime might not be spreading these reports for their effect on prices. The speculation here is that the 1964 Cuban crop will be about the same as 1963 — 3.8 million metric tons.

How much Castro's purchases of badly needed machinery and equipment will be able to help Cuba's troubled economy remain to be seen.

RUN ON SILVER DOLLARS NETS MILLION DAILY

By ADREN COOPER

WASHINGTON (AP)—While Congress balks at approving funds to make silver dollars, the government reserve is being depleted at the rate of one million a day, a Treasury official said today.

By Thursday, he said, the Treasury's inventory was down to about 13 million, which means that if the million-a-day rate is maintained, the government will run out of silver dollars in about two weeks.

There was a large crowd at the Treasury's cash window Friday after the House Appropriations Committee turned down a requested appropriation of $1,925,000 to resume minting cartwheels and suggested the government melt down those still on hand.

FLOWING BACK

However, the Treasury official said many of the silver dollars bought early in the week are flowing back into the Treasury's vaults. This indicates that coin collectors probably are partly responsible for the depletion.

The official said that if exhaustion seems imminent, Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon will suspend the regulation which requires the Treasury to redeem silver certificates in silver metal or coin.

Many of those who queued up in front of the Treasury's cash window Friday carried out the coins in bags of 1,000 each.

Two men put at least 20 bags in a station wagon. A bag of 1,000 silver dollars weighs about 50 pounds.

No silver dollars have been minted since 1935. The government has asked for $350,000 to mint 50 million this fiscal year and another $1,275,000 to mint 100 million in the fiscal year which begins July 1.

HEARING PRIORITY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board says it will give hearing priorities to applications of United Air Lines for elimination of Harrisburg and Williamsport, Pa., and Elmira-Corning, N.Y., from its route. The CAB also announced Friday it would give a hearing priority to Northeast Airlines for deletion of Newport, R.I., from its route.

EAGLES TRADE MCDONALD TO DALLAS FOR 3

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "To get players you want it's necessary to give up players someone else wants."

With those words, Joe Kuharich, new coach of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, explained why he traded his star pass-receiver, Tommy McDonald, to the Dallas Cowboys Friday.

What Kuharich got in return were three Cowboys, center-guard Lynn Hoyer; defensive tackle John Meyers, and kicking specialist Sam Baker.

McDonald has a career record of 287 receptions for 5,499 yards and 66 touchdowns. Despite injuries, he managed 41 receptions last year for 731 yards and eight touchdowns. The Eagles, however, ended up in the cellar of the Eastern Division.

"GOOD TRADE"

"We don't want to gain 400 yards and lose," Kuharich said. "It would be foolish to think that we can go on with the same players and still be able to change things around," he added.

In Dallas, Cowboys' Coach Tom Landry said, "I feel like this will be a good trade for both clubs. Naturally, we hate to give up a top kicker like Baker and two promising young ones like Hoyer and Meyers, but we felt we had to in order to get a man of McDonald's stature."

"We feel like we have two top new receivers now," he added. "In McDonald and Buddy Dial to go with Frank Clarke, Lee Folkins, Pettus Norman and Gary Barnes." The Cowboys had obtained Dial shortly after the 1963 season, from the Pittsburgh Steelers.

TO USE ROOKIE

Kuharich said, "I called him (McDonald) into the office and talked with him about an hour before the deal was announced, and he seemed to understand what we're trying to do and why it was necessary to let him go."

Kuharich said he planned to use Ron Goodwin, a rookie last year, in place of McDonald. "Goodwin is built like McDonald, has similar moves, and lacks only Tommy's experience," Kuharich said.

McDonald, a 170-pounder, started his NFL career seven years ago, joining the Eagles after being an All-America at Oklahoma.

GIANTS SNARE ELEVENTH OF 12 IN SOUTH

By JIM BECKER

Associated Press Sports Writer
Somebody finally held the San Francisco Giants under 15 runs. They only got 11.

But the Giants, who are wearing out home plate this spring, won their seventh straight exhibition game, 11-3 over the Los Angeles Angels Friday. They made it 41 runs on 57 hits in their last three games and ran their spring record to 11-1.

In the process, the Giants got 10 runs in one inning and wound up with Willie McCovey pinch hitting for Willie Mays.

Mays drove the first two runs across in the big fifth inning. When his turn came around again, McCovey went in to bat for him and collected his 11th consecutive hit of the spring.

BEST RECORD

The victory gave the Giants the best exhibition game record, after the Los Angeles Dodgers lost their first game of the spring 4-3 to the Baltimore Orioles in a 13-inning night contest. The Dodgers are 3-1.

The St. Louis Cardinals ran their record to 6-1 with a 4-1 victory over the New York Mets.

The Cards have beaten New York three out of three so far. Hank Aaron hit two homers and Frank Bolling and Tommie Aaron one each as the Milwaukee Braves blasted the New York Yankees 11-1. Ralph Terry and Whitey Ford served up the homers.

3-RUN HOMER

Richie Allen, the 22-year-old rookie third baseman of the Philadelphia Phils, hit a three-run homer — his fourth in six games — in a 5-0 victory over the Houston Cubs.

Mudcat Grant drove in three runs and pitched 6 1/3 innings for Cleveland in a 5-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Kansas City won its first game of the spring, 7-4 over Washington. Manny Jimenez and Gino Cimoli were the batting stars for the Athletics.

Cincinnati whipped Detroit 8-6 in the other game played. The Pittsburgh-Chicago White Sox contest was postponed because of wet grounds.

RODRIGUEZ IS PILING POINTS FOR BIG FIGHT

By MURRAY ROSE

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "You mark my words. In one maybe two years, I will be the welterweight and then the middleweight champion of the world."

Welterweight contender Luis Rodriguez made the statement Friday night shortly after he had racked up a unanimous and decisive 10-round decision over veteran middleweight Holley Mims of Washington at Madison Square Garden.

It boosted Rodriguez' perfect record over middleweights to 8-0. The 28-year-old Cuban's over-all record is 55-3. Mims' record is 58-28-6.

Rodriguez, now a Miami resident, will get another tuneup with a middleweight before he meets welterweight champion Emilio Griffith in a title fight at Las Vegas June 12.

TO MEET SMITH

The ever-ready fighter agreed to oppose Jesse Smith of Philadelphia in a television 10-round bout at Miami Beach April 3.

At 151 pounds to Mims' 158, Luis was just too fast and shifty for his 35-year-old opponent, now in his 17th year of pro fighting. There were no knockdowns although Luis had his aging foe in distress in the fourth and fifth rounds with his blazing barages to the body and head.

The officials had Luis the winner by the following round scores: referee Ruby Goldstein, 8-3-1, judge Al Berl 8-2-2 and judge Joe Eppy, 5-4-1. The Associated Press scorecard had Rodriguez in front, 8-2.

Colavito Charges Finley Gave Wrong Impression In Negotiations For Contract

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer
BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Slugging outfielder Rocky Colavito charged today that the Kansas City Athletics — particularly owner Charles O. Finley — had given the public the wrong impression about his contract dispute with the club.

"They had it put in the paper that I asked for $25,000 if I got traded," said Colavito. "That is not true. Finley made mention of that figure — not me. I just said I'd sign if he gave me the same clause I had in my Detroit contract."

Colavito said he and Finley were in one of their numerous contract sessions when the subject came up.

COULDN'T AGREE

"I wanted to sign and get things over with, but we could not agree on my salary," said Colavito. "I had a trade clause in my Detroit contract, so I asked him to write one in my Kansas City contract and I'd sign."

"He interrupted me right away — and he said I'd get $25,000 if I were traded," said Colavito. "Now he's made it sound like I said it, but I didn't."

"Besides, he never put it in my contract," said Colavito. "He said he didn't think it would be right because everyone else would ask for the same thing."

Colavito, acquired in an off-season trade with Detroit ended his holdout siege last week and reported last Sunday night. Colavito said he signed for less than he wanted. He had been reported seeking approximately $50,000.

"IT'S ALL OVER"

Asked for comment on the salary dispute, A's General Manager Pat Friday said: "It's over now, and I don't think it would do any good to discuss it."

"I was surprised when I got my first contract offer," said Colavito. "It called for a $6,500 cut. I couldn't understand that. First of all, when you are traded most clubs give you a token raise just to make you feel good. Secondly, I didn't have a bad year."

Bullets In Night Game At Albright

Albright College, Reading, Pa., has added Grove City College (Pa.) to its football schedule next fall.

The Lions will meet the Wolverines from western Pennsylvania in their opening game Saturday night, September 19, at Albright Stadium. It will be the first grid meeting in history between the two colleges.

Addition of Grove City gives Coach John Potokan's Lions a nine-game schedule for the first time since the 1961 campaign.

Albright's remaining opponents include Lycoming, Gettysburg, Saturday night, October 10, Moravian and Lebanon Valley, at home, and Juniata, Delaware Valley, Wagner and Wilkes away from home.

NEW MEXICO AND BRADLEY CLASH TODAY

By MURRAY CHASS

NEW YORK (AP)—New Mexico and Bradley have their vital big men and their key playmakers, but they also are ready to spring their defensive specialties against each other in the National Invitation Tournament championship game today.

Second-seeded Bradley became only the second team ever to win the basketball tournament three times. St. John's holds the distinction now. New Mexico, seeded fourth, is in the NIT for the first time. NYU and Army clash for third place in the opening of the double-header.

DEFEATED NYU

The Lobos from Albuquerque, 23-5, advanced to the title contest on the strength of a zone press defense it pulled in the last few minutes of its game with NYU Thursday night. NYU literally went to pieces.

"We plan on using the zone press," New Mexico Coach Bob King said. "We have certain instances where we think it fits. You don't use it as a steady diet. You never know what it's going to do. Our kids ran it real well against NYU."

Bradley, 22-6, is known for a full court press and used it advantageously, for example, in driving toward the 1957 NIT title. Trailing Xavier by 21 points in the first half, the Braves switched to the press and won by 35.

HELD IN READINESS

Like King, though, Coach Chuck Orsborn doesn't use his press liberally.

"We won't go into it against New Mexico unless they get a big lead," he said.

The center of attention otherwise is on the centers—the Lobos' Ira Harge and Bradley's Joe Strawder. Strawder turned his right ankle against Army, but appears to be set for Harge, the 6-foot-8 senior the Braves consider unstoppable.

Strawder, a 6-9 senior, was disappointing against St. Joseph's in the quarter-finals but erupted against Army for 19 points in the first half.

FISH PROJECTS CURTAILED DUE TO FEW FUNDS

HARRISBURG (AP)—A state Fish Commission official says his agency has been forced to cut back on some of its programs because of lack of funds.

"... But you can be assured that it (the commission) is pledged to keep its operation a progressive and aggressive one," promised Robert J. Bielo, assistant executive director.

Bielo was among several government officials who reported to Pennsylvania sportsmen Friday on what their agencies have been doing to improve hunting, fishing and conservation.

The reports were presented at the semi-annual convention of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Club. The meeting ended today.

BOAT RULES

Edward Tharp, the commission's assistant executive director in charge of water craft safety, reviewed new motorboat regulations, which were recommended earlier this week by the state's new advisory board on boating.

Tharp said the proposed regulations were in line with those already put in effect by the federal government.

Representing the Game Commission was Thomas F. Bell, chief of the law enforcement division, who said:

"Game law enforcement in Pennsylvania now enjoys its highest prestige ever. It is our philosophy that it is better to let 12 violators go unpunished rather than prosecute one innocent man."

He asked the sportsmen for improved cooperation in being certain that violations are reported promptly.

Another speaker was Walter A. Lyon, director of the Sanitary Engineering Division in the State Health Department.

Lyon told the delegates that the Sanitary Water Board, the agency charged with controlling stream pollution in Pennsylvania, has been making inspection trips across the state.

"The board feels very strongly that it must get out to see what's going on," Lyons said. "The members know that they can't see what's happening in the state from an office desk."

TRIO PACING GOLF TOURNEY

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Three eager young men—Jack Nicklaus, Rex Baxter and Bob Shave—led the way into today's third round of the $50,000 Doral Golf Tournament after a spectacular assault on one of the nation's toughest courses.

Nicklaus, 24, and Baxter, 28, knocked one stroke off the course record with six-under-par 66. Shave, 27, equaled the old mark as they surged to the top with eight under par 136.

Although the youthful trio shoved 51-year-old Sam Snead out of the lead, the old master remained a positive threat. He was only one stroke off the hot pace after a 69 in the second round.

One more stroke back was another veteran of Snead's age, a Miami club pro named Joe Lopez Sr., who put together a pair of 69s for 138.

The old record for Doral's 7,028-yard "Blue Monster" course was set in the Doral tournament in 1962 by Paul Bondeeson.

Jay Hebert remained in the running with a 69 for 139. Dave Marr, playing his best golf of the year, put together a pair of 70s to tie for seventh with Lionel Hebert and Billy Casper.

Tied at 77 were Kathie Whitworth, Judy Kimball and Judy Torsemke.

HARRISBURG (AP) — State hunting license receipts are running more than $1 million ahead of last year although the number of licenses sold is below the last year's figure.

Hunting license fees were raised by the 1963 legislature. The state game commission reported Friday that preliminary figures showed total sales of 812,245 resident and 40,821 non-resident licenses, amounting to $4,841,616 in receipts. The current license year still has five months to go.

At the beginning of the year resident licenses went up from $3.15 to $5.20 for those over 16 years of age and $3.15 to $3.20 for those between 12 and 16. Non-resident fees jumped from $20 to $25.35.

The commission had estimated sales would drop off by 100,000 because of the increase. However, sales at this point are not far behind total sales for the 1962-63 year when 926,975 resident licenses and 48,872 non-resident licenses were sold.

Only 10,000 or so helicopters have been built in the United States.

Clay Is Boomed Lustily By Fight Crowd; Balks Introduction In Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — Well, that's Kismet, said Muhammad Ali, who used to be known as Cassius Clay, before he became Cassius X.

The world's heavyweight champion said it was fate, or Kismet, that he flunked his Army tests and he didn't want to talk about it any more.

Instead, he said, he would like to fight again this summer, against Sonny Liston if the champion is ready, or against any qualified challenger.

He named three, Ernie Terrell, Doug Jones and Eddie Machen. He did not name ex-champion Floyd Patterson, who has challenged for a bout. Patterson said he hoped to take the title away from the Black Muslims, a Negro supremacy group that Cassius joined after he won the title from Liston.

If no fight can be arranged, Cassius said he planned a trip overseas.

The champion said Friday, after he learned that the Army had turned him down, that he didn't want to be called by any of his old names.

"I am Muhammad Ali, heavyweight champion of the whole world. That is a beautiful Arabic name. That's my name now," he said.

Because of the new name, a Madison Square Garden official said, Clay did not get introduced in the ring Friday night before the Luis Rodriguez-Holley Mims television main event.

But he was recognized by the crowds outside and inside the Garden and was booed lustily. There were a few cheers but they were drowned out by the jeers.

Another speaker was Walter A. Lyon, director of the Sanitary Engineering Division in the State Health Department.

Lyon told the delegates that the Sanitary Water Board, the agency charged with controlling stream pollution in Pennsylvania, has been making inspection trips across the state.

"The board feels very strongly that it must get out to see what's going on," Lyons said. "The members know that they can't see what's happening in the state from an office desk."

When Clay left the arena at the end of the ninth round of the 10-rounder, he was given another round of boos.

The Army said that Clay (cried his second preinduction examination and was "not qualified for induction into the Army under the applicable standards."

Apparently the mental test threw Cassius.

"I was only a D-minus student in high school," said Clay. "I am not the smartest but I sure am the greatest."

RUTH JESSEN
TOPS TOURNEY

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Planting her feet more than a yard apart for putting stability really works for tall, blonde Ruth Jessen.

Her putting gave her a three-stroke par-busting lead to take into today's second round of the 72-hole $7,500 Western Women's Open Golf Tournament.

The 28-year-old ace from Bon-sall, Calif., in shooting a 73 used only 10 putts in negotiating the first nine holes Friday. It took her 16 more to complete her round, but three of those were carded on a single hole, No. 12. That was her only bad one.

Clifford Ann Creed wound up three strokes behind with the help of a spectacular eagle the 105-pound Alexandria, La. girl scored on the 410-yard par 5 sixth hole. One wallop with a five-iron put her ball within 15 feet of the cup.

Tied at 77 were Kathie Whitworth, Judy Kimball and Judy Torsemke.

A Bit Of History About Early Settlers

By B. F. M. MacPHERSON

JOHN MCENAY, SOLDIER OF THE REVOLUTION

Continuing the historical and genealogical survey of the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian graveyard the next family to be taken into consideration is that of John McEnay, Soldier in the War of the American Revolution. His grave is marked and the inscription from his gravestone is as follows:—

1. "Sacred - to the memory of - John McEnay - a Soldier of the Revolution - who departed this life - November 21st, 1841. In the 89th year of his age."

2. "In memory of - Hannah McEnay - who departed this life - October 15th, 1822 - In the 60th year of her age."

Note: — It might simplify things if, at this point, it is stated that the name "McEnay" is often given in the old records as "McNay." They were one and the same.

Buried beside the old Revolutionary soldier is his wife, Hannah (Brown) McEnay. The inscription from the marker at her grave follows:—

3. "Here lies the - body of - Mary Brown - who departed this life - December 13th, 1800 - Aged 86 years."

4. "And likewise her youngest daughter - Hannah McEnay - who departed this life - October 15th - 1822 - In the 60th year of her age."

5. "Another Revolutionary Hero Gone! Died, on Sunday, November 21, 1844, Mr. John McEnay, of Liberty Township, this County, in the 89th year of his age."

Note: — It might simplify things if, at this point, it is stated that the name "McEnay" is often given in the old records as "McNay." They were one and the same.

Wrong Way Cost 2 Bandits $7,000

LONDON (AP)—Two payroll bandits lost a haul of $7,000 Friday because they forgot where they parked their get-away car.

The bandits knocked down two men, grabbed the payroll and turned the wrong way. By the time they realized their mistake and turned back, the men they had knocked down had recovered. In the ensuing struggle the bandits dropped their loot, as they made their escape.

Agnes McEnay was born on Saturday, October 25, 1783.

"Joseph McEnay and Hannah McEnay were born on Sabbath November 28th, 1785.

"Margaret McEnay was born on Tuesday March 11th, 1788. Rebecca McEnay was born on Wednesday June 2nd, 1790.

"James McEnay was born on Tuesday, April 3rd, 1792. Robert McEnay was born on Saturday, March 15th, 1794.

"Samuel McEnay was born on Monday, February 13th, 1797.

"Wife died 1822. "Came up to this place (apparently the Marsh Creek Settlement) in 1789.

"Father - in - law died in the year 1792.

LOST SPEECH "About the last of March in the year 1803 my son, Robert McEnay, got a sore boile under his arm and lost the freedom of speech."

3. (Back of the same sheet) "Brother, Joseph Brown, died the 19th of October, 1800.

Mother died the 13th of December 1800.

"We had nine children—Mary, John, Agnes, Joseph, Hannah, Margt., Rebecca, James, and Samuel."

Note: — The above three items are in a different handwriting and the notations might have been made by Hannah (Brown) McEnay, for she notes the death of her brother and mother. In addition she gives the number and names of her children.

It is quite possible that Joseph Brown, the brother of Hannah (Brown) McEnay, and his father are buried in the McEnay-Brown family plot in graves that are now unmarked.

McENAY DATA In the files of the old "Adams Sentinel," later the "Star and Sentinel," the following data on the McEnay family are to be found under the dates given:—

2. Wednesday, August 24, 1814 — "Married, on July 21, 1814, by the Rev. David McConaughy, Mr. Joseph McEnay to Miss Margaret Hunter, both of this County."

Note: — Joseph McEnay was the fourth child and second son of John and Hannah (Brown) McEnay. His bride, Margaret (Hunter) McEnay, was probably a member of the family who founded the village of Hunters-ton in this County.

Need Coffee Break On This Complaint LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A citizen appeared Friday before the Lansing Tax Board of Review to complain "my taxes are too low."

The board currently is hearing complaints from local citizens in a recent adjustment of property valuations.

Leroy Neal, a worker at the Fisher Body plant of General Motors, complained his $400 assessment increase wasn't high enough. Some of his neighbors, he said, have been given tax increases ranging from $1,000 to $1,800.

Four Firemen Injured In Fire POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Firemen are investigating the cause of a blaze that did heavy damage to the machine shop section of Medico Industries, a tank part manufacturer for Chrysler Corp.

Four firemen suffered injuries in the fire Friday. Authorities reported the blaze started in a second floor storage room, which housed dyes, wires and parts for the machine shop.

Famed Prosecutor Dies In Poverty

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — William Scott Stewart, famed Chicago lawyer known as the "hanging prosecutor" before he resigned and became a defense attorney who numbered mobsters among his clients, has died in poverty and obscurity.

Death came on March 8 in a modest rented white house in North Miami Beach and was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage. He was 74.

There was no funeral — no flowers — no mourners. His body was taken to the University of Miami Medical School in accordance with Stewart's wish.

PLANES, DOGS BEING USED TO TRACK KILLER

BATTLE MOUNTAIN, Nev. (AP)—Law officers from three counties were using small planes and police dogs today in a manhunt for the suspected killer of a New York couple, slain last month near Phoenix.

Mineral County Sheriff's Deputy Victor Trujillo said the wanted man was Jim Vanderham of Fresno, Calif. He was believed armed.

The search began Friday night after a man and a 14-year-old girl fled a camper truck at a sheriff's roadblock. The truck and camper belonged to John and Mildred Bertella of Sherrill, N.Y.

THROAT CUT The bodies of Bertella, 62, and his 55-year-old wife were found Feb. 24 off Highway 88, just north of Apache Junction, Ariz. Both had been beaten, stabbed and their throats cut.

Sheriff's deputies captured the girl, identified as Theresa Robichaud, also of Fresno, near where the truck camper was halted.

"He's considered mad and dangerous," Trujillo said. "We don't know how long he can last in there. It's freezing... if he shoots, we're sure going to shoot back."

In Phoenix, Sheriff Cal Boies disclosed that Bertella had also been shot, but he did not reveal the caliber of the weapon.

The retired couple had left New York on Dec. 1 on their third winter trip to the Phoenix area.

Steeplejack Weds Former First Mate HONOLULU (AP) — Lee Quinn, the seafaring steeplejack with a fondness for all-girl crews, married his former first mate Friday.

Less than 24 hours after the wedding, Quinn left by plane for Tahiti, where he is planning a cruise to New Zealand and Australia with a four-girl crew.

Mrs. Quinn, the former Beatrice Berkson, was scheduled to fly today to the West Coast. She plans to join her husband in Australia in several weeks.

It was the second marriage for both newlyweds.

Musmanno Given Some More Help PITTSBURGH (AP) — Attorneys from 28 western Pennsylvania counties have formed an organization to support Justice Michael A. Musmanno of the State Supreme in his bid for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senator.

Roy T. Clunk, former Allegheny County judge, in making announcement Friday, said the organization is called the Advocates of Western Pennsylvania for the Senate.

NOTICES
In Memoriam D WOODWARD: In sad but loving remembrance of our dear father, Ellsworth C. Woodward, who departed this life 11 years ago, March 22. No one knows the silent heart-aches. Only those who have lost can tell of the grief that's borne in silence. For the one we loved so well. Gone is the face we loved so dear, Silent the voice we loved to hear, And those who think of him today Are the ones who will always love him forever and a day.

ELECTION SUIT HEADS BACK TO HIGHEST COURT

HARRISBURG (AP)—A suit to prevent elections from being held under the 1963 legislative reapportionment act was headed back to the state Supreme Court today with the April 28 primary less than six weeks away.

The high tribunal had referred the suit to Commonwealth court Jan. 24, directing the lower court to make findings of fact. The suit then was to be returned to the state Supreme Court for a final decision.

Commonwealth court Thursday returned the suit, along with the transcript of testimony taken at a hearing Feb. 6.

BROUGHT BY CITIZENS

The suit was brought by the Philadelphia Committee of Seventy, a citizens group contesting the apportionment of state House and Senate seats in Philadelphia.

In his report of the proceedings here, Judge James S. Bowman said that although the suit sought to redress alleged apportionment wrongs in Philadelphia, "the issues raised must and will have statewide significance."

The suit, filed by Donald C. Rubel and Anne D. McKinley on behalf of the Committee of Seventy, contended that a provision of the state Constitution limiting Philadelphia to eight senators was discriminatory.

It also attacked the reapportionment of the House and Senate by the 1963 Legislature and sought to prevent elections from being held under that act.

Johnson Promises 'Better Deal' Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, making a bold bid for bipartisan support in the November election, has pledged that all Americans can "look forward to a better deal."

Speaking in strident tones Thursday night at a Democratic $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner at the National Guard Armory, Johnson sang the praises of his party and said:

"Let us invite all of the people to unite with us, to work with us in this truly national party which is a stranger to no region, an open party closed to none, welcoming all; a unifying party which knows no color, knows no creed, knows no north, no south, no east, no west."

Punch a small hole in the bottom of that can of cranberry jelly before removing the top with a wall-type opener. This method allows the jelly to slip out of the can easily.

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

JOHNSON - LATINS: Latin-American diplomats are reported to be taking a new look at their countries' relations with the United States as an aftermath of the Johnson administration's handling of the Panama dispute last weekend.

The envoys are said to be concerned about these matters: Johnson's decision Sunday night to override the announcement by the Organization of American States of a U.S.-Panamanian agreement.

His interjections of the Panama situation into his Alliance for Progress speech at the Pan-American Union here Monday.

His swift departure from the hall in which he shook hands with only several of the Latin ambassadors on hand.

Latin-American sources said that at a White House reception Monday night the President thumped the chest of more than one member of the OAS mediation commission with his forefinger and insisted that by its action Sunday the commission had confused the Panamanian situation for the United States.

USDA Will Buy Extra Beef For School Lunch Program To Relieve Low Steer Price

By THOMAS E. PIPER
Adams County Farm Agent

Choice grade slaughter steer prices are at the lowest level since early 1957. To aid cattle producers during this period of low prices the United States Department of Agriculture has announced two beef purchase programs.

The Department will buy substantial quantities of USDA choice grade beef for distribution primarily to schools. It will be bought in the form of frozen boned roasts and ground beef.

Under the second program, the USDA will purchase substantial quantities of canned beef in natural juices for distribution to needy families.

Secretary of Agriculture Freeman said that removal of beef supplies from normal channels for distribution to schools and needy persons should be effective in stabilizing and improving cattle prices at a time when substantial numbers of feed cattle are moving to market.

Since the first of the year, cattle slaughter has been about 12 per cent greater than during the same period last year. Average slaughter weights have been up 15 pounds, thus total beef production has been 13 per cent greater.

BAND SEEDING

Using the band method of seeding small seeded legumes means placing fertilizer in narrow bands directly under bands of seed where it can be reached by the first seedling root.

Why is this important? Seedling forage plant roots have a very small contact area with the soil. They're usually poor rustlers for nutrients. Unless the soil fertility is very high, these tiny roots get little nourishment if the fertilizer isn't nearby.

You'll generally see more response from phosphate than from nitrogen and potash in early establishment. However, the use of some nitrogen and potash along with phosphorus is usually more effective than phosphorus alone.

Band seeding is just one of the steps to a successful legume seeding.

But if getting good legume stands has been a problem on your farm, getting on the band seeding wagon is one practice that could result in big dividends this year.

POWER TOOLS DANGEROUS

Electric handtools are becoming as common around most homes as a car or power mower. And they can be just as dangerous when handled carelessly.

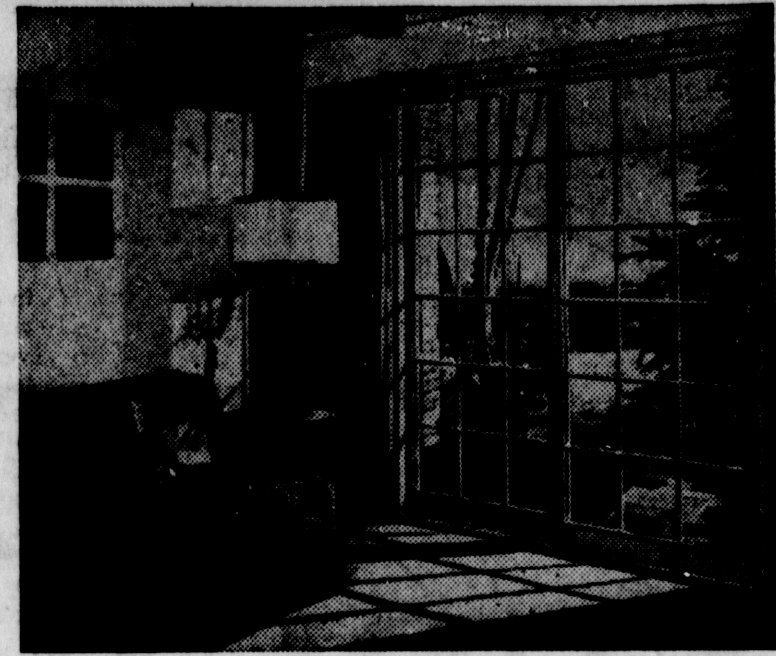

Ordinary voltages used for operating handtools such as electric drills, saws and sanders can be fatal. Such tools must be positively grounded for safe use.

If an ungrounded electrical handtool is used, the frame may become charged. If this happens, the current may flow through the hand, arm, body and feet of a user to whatever grounded surface he is touching. Such grounded surfaces include earth, concrete or brick floor and walls, radiators, all water pipes, gas pipes, and other metal surfaces.

Many things can cause current to charge the frame and the handtool user. These include water in the trigger switch, carbon from motor brushes, broken or loose parts within the case of a motor or trigger switch, defective insulation of motor windings, loose cord connections in the tool or attachment plug, worn or defective portable cords or cord connections.

FAULTY PLUG

A 3-wire cord and a 3-pronged plug should be part of this equipment. A third wire is used only as a ground to provide a better path for the electricity instead of through your body. This third wire can be im-

PANELS OFFER EASY DIVIDER

The Associated Press

You can live in a room with ingenious window treatment and decorative touches to permit more storage space. Interior designed Fred Shallow did this in his own one-room, L-shaped apartment to achieve just such an effect.

He used pierced hardboard, the material originally made to be used as shutter doors. These panels are available in a number of designs offering various degrees of visibility depending on the pierced pattern.

At windows he used three panels vertically and panels across the top to frame handsome citron yellow shades. One panel ran down a window that was twice as large as the one adjoining it so that the effect was of three windows all the same size.

In another area of the room, at the "L," he created a room

Add Home Drama With New Lighting

As anyone connected with the theater can tell you, lighting can make a tremendous difference in setting moods during a play, in flattering the appearance of the actors and the props.

Lighting can do the same for your home, indoors and out. In modern homes, lighting has become much more than a means of illumination.

Entire walls and ceilings can be dramatically lighted without a bulb or fixture showing. Lighting can play up a lovely feature of the home, and soften less pleasant areas.

The exterior of the home takes on added interest with the play of lights in soft colors spotted artistically around the grounds.

Lighting should be planned to serve, of course. It should provide proper illumination for each activity — diffused light for reading and close work, soft lights for conversation areas, etc.

In planning lighting, be sure to consider the placement of the switches. These should be located near entrances to rooms or close to the spot where the light will serve.

Lamps will probably still remain in the decor, but these should be selected in line with the other lighting that will be available. And, sufficient, well-placed outlets for the cords must be considered well in advance.

If you want help in planning your lighting, contact the electrical power company, or a reliable electrical contractor.

Housing Experts Predict New Boom In Remodeling

The United States is experiencing an unprecedented home improvement boom.

Housing economists maintain that the amount of money spent to improve older homes will equal — and possibly exceed the amount of money spent on new home construction within five years. A few think that point already has been reached.

There are solid economic reasons for the increasing interest in remodeling. In the first place, it's good business for home owners. While three or four thousand dollars spent on a major purchase such as a new car will melt away in only a few years, money spent on home improvement provides an investment that will grow in value. Experts say a thoughtfully conceived and carefully executed remodeling project actually can add more value to a home than the project itself costs.

Another reason for the remodeling boom is that many home owners are finding they can expand their existing homes for less money than it would cost to move into new, bigger homes.

The Douglas Fir Plywood Association, a nonprofit trade association which has done extensive work in the Add-A-Room field, says a typical example of costs works like this:

A family that owns a 1,000-square-foot home purchased 10 years ago for $12,000 probably needs room to expand. Assuming that the family needs dictate a room addition of 12 x 16 feet, the cost can be expected to run about $2,800. This would bring the family's investment to $14,800 for a home with 1,192 square feet — or a house that costs between $12 and $12.50 per square foot.

New homes construction throughout the country averages about $15 per square foot — it would be difficult to buy a comparable new house for less than $18,000. In addition, moving to a new home usually entails a number of "unproductive" costs, such as the cost of moving, title clearance, and real estate commission. There are also added costs in new landscaping and frequently in new drapes and new rugs.

Then, too, there is the problem of leaving familiar neighborhood, and its church, and schools to move to a new home that is probably farther from the heart of town.

What it boils down to is that the homeowner frequently finds the space his growing family needs in his own back yard.

The plywood association suggests that an add-a-room project that takes only a few weeks can produce solutions to years of accumulated family growth problems.

However, the association adds that an add-a-room project is not the simplest, nor the cheapest kind of home improvement. Remodeling costs, according to DFPA, run about the same as new construction costs. In addition, there are design and construction problems that are unique in remodeling situations — for instance, the contractor usually must allow a certain amount of money to tear out or build around an existing structure. Even so, added space is one of the surest ways to increase the value of most homes built since World War II.

To help home owners and remodeling contractors, the association has developed two basic room plans that can be adapted to fit almost any home. The plans are in two basic sizes — 12 x 16 feet and 16 x 20 feet rooms. The rooms are intended to function as family rooms and bedrooms, and details are included for a full-size bath in the larger room and a half-bath in the smaller.

In addition to the design ideas, the association is offering tips on how to select a remodeling contractor, what to do about plans and specifications, the requirements of a workable remodeling contract, financing possibilities and notes on decorating solutions.

Most remodeling contractors, National Association of Home Builders chapters, lumber dealers and National Home Improvement Council chapters have copies of the working drawings produced by DFPA.

Now your lawn so often that never more than one inch is clipped off the top. If the grass gets much taller than usual and you clip more than one inch, the plant's food processes are damaged.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

STEEL DOORS ARE WARP-FREE ECONOMY ITEM

One of the easiest and most decorative ways to spruce up an old house or lend added charm to a new one is with warp-free steel doors. In addition to beauty, new types of steel doors now available offer economy, safety and ease of installation.

Sound - insulated steel doors in decorator colors and finishes have many advantages when used outside the house. They are also suitable for any room or closet inside.

You can have your choice of a painted finish in every shade of the rainbow, and then some. Steel doors also permit you to change the color at will with a minimum of effort. Then there are vinyl or plastic coatings in many colors and patterns that resist fading and scratching while letting you blend the door with any kind of room decor. If porcelain - on - steel is your choice, you can have solid colors or designs with a matte or glossy finish that is chip resistant and easy to keep clean.

When it comes to styles, steel doors again set the pace. There are single, double, sliding and folding doors, as well as units with glass inserts or side lights, louvers and transoms.

In addition to their handsome appearance, steel doors offer economy because they last longer than any other kind. Made of cold rolled or galvanized steel sheet, they stand up under extraordinary abuse and require a minimum of upkeep. They are immune to rotting, swelling, warping and sagging regardless of the climate, age or wear.

Since they retain their true dimensions, there is a tight seal between the door and frame. When used outside in colder climates, they virtually eliminate the need for storm doors. And when hardened steel locks are combined with strong steel entry doors, you needn't worry about security.

The safety features of steel doors make them just right for the hobby room if any member of the family uses inflammable paints or electrical tools. They should also be used on house entries from the garage and furnace rooms where a fire could start. Steel doors withstand much higher temperatures than any other door material and cannot contribute fuel to a fire.

If you're watching your budget, the ease of installation of steel doors will help you save money without foregoing quality. Here's a job the man of the house can do.

The doors are delivered with their own frames, locks and hinges, already accurately aligned. Everything fits perfectly, so the door can be installed with a minimum of time, effort and cost.

Wall construction presents no problem. Steel door frames are available for use on plaster, block, tile masonry, laminated, drywall or any combination of materials. They are even easy to adjust for irregular door openings. And if you like, you can hang steel doors right on existing wooden frames.

Here are five easy steps for hanging steel doors.

1. Set the factory assembled frame in place and secure it to the studs.
2. Fix the loose hinge leaves to the door with sheet metal screws which are supplied with the unit.
3. Hang the door, dropping the pins in the hinges. You'll get a perfect fit every time because of accurate assembly.
4. Set the cylindrical lock in the door which is already mortised, drilled and tapped.
5. Attach the strike plate to the pre-mortised steel frame. It's as simple as that.

Window Styles Add New Glamor

The larger remodeling projects need a good measure of dramatic change to be completely satisfactory.

The home owner wants visual changes that he can be proud of. That he can show off. That he can have as a reminder of good planning with satisfactory results.

Probably the most dramatic way to add a completely new feeling to an old room is to carefully select and use good windows. Today there is a window style built for every need.

Frequently, windows can be the key selling feature of a complete remodeling job.

Thousands of older homes need the benefits of today's larger window walls to bring in both light and afford a view.

Ventilation, important in every room, is particularly critical in an area like the kitchen. Today's housewife has little use for windows that stick and bind over the kitchen sink, and with modern casements and Flexvents, there is little reason she can't have fingertip operations with any window in her kitchen. (This holds for the rest of her home, too.)

Close Breezeway For Extra Room

There are a number of improvements that can be made in existing homes to provide extra room or more usable space.

A breezeway makes a fine extra room. Enclose it with modern window units. Even without heat, enclosure will give you two or three months of extra use in the spring and fall. Come rainy weather, your porch is still a pleasant room for the whole family. Enclosure will keep out dust and rain, so you can keep this new room clean and furnish it with better furniture. Usually a porch or breezeway is easy to heat, so it is an economical way of getting a cheerful extra room for the whole year.

Perhaps the second most popular use of windows in remodeling is to turn an unused attic into living space. Here windows will frequently make the difference between livable and unlivable rooms; or even with good insulation, second floor rooms require plenty of ventilation. And if you put up a large dormer, you'll not only get plenty of fresh air and plenty of light; you'll get more space.

No matter what type of room improvement you are planning, remember that the windows are as important for all-round beauty, enjoyment and satisfaction as any other element.

NOTIONS NEST FOR CHILDREN

Want to keep the children on the other side of the screen door? They won't bang in and out of the house nearly so often if you supply them with a Notions Nest outdoors — a gayly decorated box equipped with the items children usually come in asking for.

You can get a big wooden cheese box from the neighborhood grocery and decorate it yourself. Instead of paint it's faster to use colored plastic tape. Why not alternate two colors for stripes to match the awnings? Or make it a bright red, children's favorite color. You can either screw the Nest to the back of the house or attach it to a window sill if there's one low enough. Otherwise, hang it inside the garage. That way it's always in youngsters' reach.

You'll find it easy to equip the Notions Nest. Just think of the things the children most frequently need. You'll want to include tissues, of course. They never seem to have enough of

WALL DECOR IS BASIS FOR NEW ROOM FASHION

An interesting wall treatment can do a great deal to make an interesting room, is the opinion of California decorator Barbara Lockhart, member of N.S.I.D.

Miss Lockhart, who has done some of Hollywood's most intriguing homes, feels that all too often wall decorations fail to give that "just right" touch to create not only a conversation-making background, but also to coordinate the room's decor.

Charming wall decorations need not be expensive. A bit of imagination in the selection and in the hanging is all that is needed to convert many products now on the market into an accent of elegance.

Mosaic wall plaques, for instance, are available in a variety of subjects to fit any decor. The kits of these mosaics are unusually complete — right down to the crushed crystals, marble and jewels, which make them not only entrancing to hand, but fun to easily create. The sparkling, jeweled decor dimension mosaics, for example, are as exquisite as museum pieces. Designed by Hallman is a series of 8½" x 24" panel kits which can be hung separately, or coordinated. Gorgeous plumed peacock teamed with a splendid jeweled pheasant will give any setting a new and brilliant look; and Mrs. Lockhart defies anyone to guess that the kits from which they are assembled cost any more than $5.

Cork panels, too, available in any lumber yard, can be the background of a handsome wall decoration at a complete cost of less than $10. Easily set into a baroque frame, the cork makes a character textured these. Be sure to supply a tube of vaseline petroleum jelly. They can apply it themselves straight from the tube to relieve the pain and soothe their inevitable scratches and scrapes. It's ideal, too, for lubricating bicycles so they won't squeak. And, if your children are like most they ask for an adhesive bandage for the slightest scratch. Keep them happy with a large box in the Notions Nest.

Probably the most frequent excuse children use for coming in the house is to ask for a glass of water. Keep a small thermos filled with water in the Nest, along with some paper cups. That will quench their thirst and eliminate a few trips.

background on which to hang or insert a beautifully painted plate, or Dresden china doll that will give a piquant life to most any mid-Victorian room. In a stark white modern frame the cork panel will brilliantly set off brass or copper decorations to make a conversation piece for contemporary decoration, while in a maple frame it is Early American. "Looking at the wall and thinking about it," advises Miss Lockhart, "is the first step in redecorating a room to be a pleasanter spot for living and entertaining, or simply relaxing."

WEATHER SIGNS WARN OWNERS OF REPAIR NEED

The Weather Bureau will usually give us ample warning well in advance of a change in the weather, but your home has a few danger signals of its own that may go unnoticed.

If your home is 10 years old or older, chances are that you will soon be in need of a few repairs. Here are a few danger signals to watch for:

Are your roof shingles missing granules, or do they appear dried out? Does the siding on your home appear warped, cracked, or loosened?

Perhaps the interior walls or ceilings show signs of discoloration after a heavy rain. If so, it's time to replace your roof or siding before you develop a major moisture problem.

According to most engineers, the best roof shingles are made of a heavy rag felt with 100 per cent asphalt coating. You'll also find a wide range of siding available today, but the most durable falls into three general categories: Insulating, fire-proof asbestos, and aluminum.

During cold weather you may notice that the walls or ceilings are ten to fifteen degrees colder than room temperature.

This condition is due to poor insulation. Just as your oven is insulated to keep cooking heat in, so should your home be protected to be comfortable in the winter.

Rock wool or fiber glass insulation is available in batts, rolls, or pour-type insulation for hard to get at spaces. For best results, insulation experts recommend a three-inch thickness for the average home and a six-inch insulation for homes with air conditioning or electric heating.

Extra Phones Add Home Convenience

In any kind of home improvement project, a little advance planning always pays dividends. This is particularly true in the case of telephone service which is sometimes overlooked or taken for granted.

With the advice of your local telephone company, the most convenient location for phones and other communications services for your home can be determined in advance. For example, a wall phone in a kitchen can be so placed that one can dial conveniently and have easy access to a writing surface for note-taking.

A final thought on phone planning is consideration of the decorative lift that can be obtained through the use of telephones in color. Wall phones now are available in white, beige, yellow and pink; table model phones in white, beige, green, pink and blue, and Princess phones in white, beige, pink, blue and turquoise.

Complete entranceways are available in packaged units, including carefully fitted frames to make installation as easy as possible and to reduce on-the-job labor costs. A variety of designs are available, including colonial, with its finely reeded pilasters and intricately worked pediments, caps and heads.

Door designs vary from six or eight-panel colonial to three-panel "ranch" contemporary. Some contemporary models have removable panels that permit families to design their own doors by selecting the panel inserts that suit them best.

Often, improving a lack-luster house facade will call for new windows. Windows as well as doors of ponderosa pine are available in a number of stock sizes and styles. Some styles go best with contemporary design, others with traditional, while some are at home regardless of architectural design. Families with traditional homes usually prefer the familiar double-hung type or a bay window — both popular colonial America.

Bay windows are prized because they help break up dull exterior lines and add light and space inside. Bow windows, with their graceful curves, now are available, too, in precision manufactured complete units easy to install.

NEW ENTRANCE GIVES OLD HOME FACE-LIFTING

First impressions are important. That's why many home owners, as well as architects and designers, feel the entrance area of a house demands special attention. It's a good place to start if you're planning to give the exterior of the house a face-lift.

Fortunately, in order to give a house a new custom look it's rarely necessary to turn to costly custom-made millwork items. Factory-made entryways, panel doors, windows, mouldings and the like are available at building materials dealers all over the country.

It's even possible to obtain authentic reproductions of colonial doors in stock sizes. These are made of durable ponderosa pine and are precision-made for accurate fit and treated with special chemicals to provide extra protection against all kinds of weather.

A new roof adds to the appearance and value of an older home. Here, asphalt shingles are applied.

CEILINGS MAY BE SUSPENDED

Next time you want to modernize a ceiling in your home, try putting up a suspended ceiling.

The suspended ceiling consists of a metal grid system which is installed at whatever ceiling height is desired. Ceiling panels — acoustical, combustible, or decorative — are then laid into position in the grid.

For many years the suspension system has been the popular method of installing ceilings in large projects, such as office buildings and schools. Now similar systems are being made available to homeowners through local building materials dealers.

The cost is low, too. A modern suspended ceiling can be installed in an average-size room (12' x 15') for under $85 according to The Celotex Corporation.

This type of ceiling has several other advantages:

Since ceiling panels simply rest on the flanges of the grid members, they can be tipped out of position and removed at any time. This makes it easy for cleaning. Fiberboard panels, which are available either in acoustical or decorative finishes, can be washed with a sponge and a mild detergent.

This flexible ceiling also permits easy access to above-ceiling fixtures and service lines — especially important in a basement remodeling project.

The high ceilings of old-fashioned rooms can be lowered and modernized without the extra labor and expense of installing heavy ceiling joists and other framing.

Evenly diffused, glare-free lighting can be placed wherever required, with the use of translucent lay-in panels. All-luminous ceiling adds dimension to small rooms and cheerfully brightens kitchens and other rooms.

The suspended ceiling is an ideal do-it-yourself project since no special skills or tools are required. Modernizing the ceiling of an average-size room would take no more than a weekend.

OPEN NEW CHURCHES

NEW YORK (AP) — A survey by the research bureau of the National Council of Churches indicates that Protestant denominations in this country start an estimated 3,286 new churches annually, and shut down an average 1,938.

Larry Smith and Paul Smith, sophomore members of Mississippi State's basketball team, come from Kentucky.

OWNER'S MUST INSURE HOMES

Earlier this year a Midwestern homeowner completed extensive remodeling of his home. He enclosed a sun porch, installed wall paneling in two rooms, put wall-to-wall carpeting in three rooms and a new tile floor in the kitchen. He also installed a new furnace and had the house completely rewired.

Less than three months later, fire destroyed everything. The fire was tragic enough but the cruellest blow was yet to come — for this homeowner had neglected to "remodel" his insurance when he remodeled his home.

His insurance (a policy he'd carried for years) protected his home against loss up to $8,000. The contents were insured for another $2,500. His insurance company delivered a check for the $10,500 total within a few days of the fire.

But the homeowner was still a $5,500 loser. Replacement cost for his home ran more than $11,000 and an inventory of the contents placed their worth at about $5,000.

Walter H. Vernier, executive vice president of one of the nation's large fire insurance companies, State Farm Fire and Casualty, says situations such as this are not rare. He estimates that a very important number of the homeowners in the U.S. are underinsured today.

"People will make improvements — even add a room or two — yet neglect to add to their insurance protection," Vernier says.

He also points out that many people are underinsured because the general rise in property value and material costs has increased the value of their homes — perhaps without any major improvements being made.

"Houses which were worth $10,000 to $15,000 in 1950 may be worth $15,000 to $20,000 today," Vernier says. "Unfortunately, many of them are still insured for their 1950 value. If there's a loss, however, the replacement costs will be 1964 costs — not 1950 — and this homeowner is going to end up short."

How can you avoid being underinsured? State Farm has these suggestions:

Go over your fire insurance or homeowners' policy today with your insurance agent. See that it provides adequate funds for replacing any loss you might sustain.

Make such a checkup a yearly routine. If any additions or improvements are made, be sure similar additions are made to your insurance coverage.

Take yearly inventories of the contents of your home. Seemingly minor additions — maybe a new sofa, end table, hi-fi set or even new clothes — increase your personal property value and potential loss. Be sure your insurance on these contents is adequate.

The best basis for determining how much insurance is enough is replacement cost. If you're not sure about how much it would cost you to rebuild your home and replace the contents, your insurance agent may be able to help you — or can give you the name of a competent appraiser who can.

Authoress Writes Bizarre Musical

NEW YORK (AP) — "Vertical and Horizontal," a book about psychoanalysis, is the basis for an unconventional musical being planned for future White Way exhibit.

The author of the volume, Lillian Ross, may turn over the adapting task to S. N. Behrman. Cy Feuer and Ernie Martin, specialists at musical production, are the tentative sponsors.

TRITHION
early!

TRITHION with spray oil is highly successful against overwintering eggs of rosy and green aphids, mites and scale insects.

Timing is important. Start spraying early, as soon as buds show green, and finish before leaves unfold from the buds for lasting, maximum effect and no oil damage.

If you don't use TRITHION-oil by delayed-dormant time, use TRITHION alone as a late delayed-dormant spray.

TRITHION is available combined with a 60-second oil for the convenience of the spray operator. For growers who wish to add the TRITHION and oil separately to the spray tank, there is the TRITHION 25W and TRITHION 4 Flowable. TRITHION 25W may also be used in summer spray schedules.

Let your orchard get a clean start — with TRITHION. See your dealer for details or write Stauffer Chemical Company, Agricultural Chemical Division, 880 Madison Avenue, New York 10017.

New Knock-Down Kitchen Units Revolutionize Home Designs

The Associated Press
After designing 17 lines of kitchens for manufacturers, David Humphrey struck his dream kitchen — approaching the entire kitchen idea from a new principle of rotating drawers and tambour doors.

It's a knock-down, durable, completely utilitarian storage arrangement.
"Box style cabinets created by cabinet makers as furniture continued to be used by manufacturers without reexamining problems that required new techniques. New materials were applied to the same old principles of outer boxes and inner boxes, creating a complicated structural system requiring draw guides that must work parallel in order to suspend boxes," he explains.

KNOCK-DOWN SYSTEM

For one thing, with the new knock-down system, a great shipping advantage has been devised. Thirty of these kitchens designed for Orbit Imperial may be shipped on a truck in contrast to about three of the box-style units, he says. Aluminum extrusions and high pressure laminate, textolite, are used.

"Drawers hang on a steel shaft so that everything is hidden when closed, but when opened by a touch, each section swings around. There are quarter circles (on the end), half circles (in the middle section) and three-quarter circles (as on the inside corner of an L). Pull out the drawers and you have an exposed section under it so that everything is accessible for cleaning, even the floors."

The storage gained by this method "is fantastic," he says. Every part of the circle is accessible for visibility. Drawers are of different depths for pots and pans, other kitchen ware and utensils.

"Tambour doors on upper cabinets glide around corners out of sight so that units may be left open until the meal is completed," Humphrey says illustrating the mechanical feature, made possible by elastic running through the plastic slats.

Hundreds of drawer arrangements may be made because of the modular feature, he points out. They've come down as far from the ceiling and up so far from the floor in one of these kitchens that only 60 inches is needed from top to bottom of the cabinets.

"We've done everything within the optimum area, so the average woman can reach to the top without standing on her toes, and pick up things below without bending down," he says.

OBSERVE TEST KITCHEN

He and Alphonso Villa, his partner, who handles mechanical features, have worked five years on details of the design and have been observing more than 1,800 test kitchens in Puerto Rican homes. The kitchen is made there mainly, with some parts made more economically here.

The drawer designs permit a mixing and matching of colors. One yummy looking kitchen uses six colors; another is in a cool turquoise, pale green and white. There is an all-beige kitchen with acrylic sliding doors of pale amethyst and green, resembling pebbled

WASHING WILL PROLONG PAINT ON WOOD SIDING

By ANDY LANG

The Associated Press

A garden hose sometimes can be effective substitute for a paint brush in giving a fresh look to a house with wood siding.

Wood that appears to need painting often needs nothing more than a cleaning. The quickest and easiest way to accomplish this is by rinsing the siding with water from a hose. Aside from the cleansing action of the water, the pressure from the hose helps to push the dirt from the wood. Must you be warned to doublecheck every window to be certain it is tightly closed?

DIRT REQUIRES WASHING

Dirt of a more stubborn nature may require a gentle washing with a cloth and warm water. If necessary, soap suds or one of the mild detergents or scouring powders can be used. In all cases, the rubbing action should be done with a fairly light touch. A final rinsing with clear water should be given if a soap, detergent or powder is used.

When ordinary dirt is not the culprit, other measures must be taken. Take the case of a common stain on wood siding: That caused by the use of nails that are not resistant to corrosion. The rust-like coloring of these stains will not come off so easily. The area must be washed with a solution of four ounces of oxalic acid crystals to one gallon of water. This calls for careful handling and the use of rubber gloves. A rinsing with cold water is essential. The only way to be certain that stains do not reappear is to remove the nails and replace them with those which resist corrosion.

MILDEW IS PROBLEM

Mildew is a problem in some areas of the country. When it has occurred only a little, scrubbing with a brush may be sufficient to remove it. Scouring powder can be added for more stubborn cases. But a household cleaner which contains either sodium hypochlorite or trisodium phosphate is the best bet. Here again, this does not insure against a return of the condition. The prevention of mildew involves the elimination of whatever is causing persistent dampness and the application of a mildew-proof paint to the troubled area.

When pitch or resin moves through paint and causes staining, scouring powder should be tried first, but only light pressure should be used in the rubbing. Denatured alcohol also is effective. Excessive moisture in back of the siding is usually responsible for this condition.

Shade seekers will appreciate outdoor area boasting three different and decorative ways to screen out sun.

On The House

By ANDY LANG

The Associated Press

It's highly unlikely you'll ever see a home workshop that bears any resemblance to those glistening layouts that occasionally make an appearance in some publications. The house-keeping chores involved in keeping such workshops spotless would prevent them from ever being used for making or fixing things.

Conceding, then, that a certain amount of disorder is inevitable, it still is possible to keep a home workshop reasonably neat, clean and safe with a minimum amount of trouble. The secret is in making it easy to put things in their proper places, whether it be tools, nails, lumber, sawdust or oily rags.

SCREWDRIVER HOLDER

If you have a holder for screwdrivers, you're likely to return a screwdriver to it rather than placing it on a bench. If you have individual containers for nails and screws of different sizes, you won't find the fasteners all over the place. If a lumber-storage rack is convenient, pieces of wood will wind up there rather than on the floor. And metal containers for sawdust and rags not only will encourage neatness, they'll help to prevent fires.

In planning a workshop, you can make it easier for yourself by remembering certain fundamentals. Here some of them:

PUT RUBBER ON LEGS

If the workshop is large enough to keep your table saw in the center of the room, fine. If it isn't, better put retractable rubber casters on the legs of the saw stand so that it can be moved to the center when you're working with large pieces of wood.

It will be difficult to keep your tools from rusting if the workshop is in a damp basement. A dehumidifier of some sort may be a necessity.

Sweeping a basement floor will be a lot easier if you cover the concrete with resilient tiles or some other type of smooth flooring.

CONSIDER LAMP

Entirely aside from the regular lighting, consider the use of a lamp for a specific area where you may be doing fine work.

Where you don't want the sounds of power tools reverberating through the house, acoustical ceiling tiles will do much towards muffling those sounds. See that all motor belts are neither too tight nor too loose;

tion. The prevention of mildew involves the elimination of whatever is causing persistent dampness and the application of a mildew-proof paint to the troubled area.

When pitch or resin moves through paint and causes staining, scouring powder should be tried first, but only light pressure should be used in the rubbing. Denatured alcohol also is effective. Excessive moisture in back of the siding is usually responsible for this condition.

HANG PHOTOS FOR INTEREST

Having professional photographs taken is an American custom dictated by the desire for a family record. Long ago, colonists had their portraits painted by nomadic artists who traveled from house to house and town to town getting bed and board for their work.

Today it's a simple procedure to commemorate the milestones of life by visiting the local photography studio for an hour where you're treated like a combination king, queen and movie star.

Such professional photographs make attractive home decoration, as well as welcome gifts. What could be more sentimental than a wall of professional photographs of family members, especially if some of them live far away.

If you plan such a decoration, here are a few rules to guide you:

First of all choose frames to complement — not overpower — the subject. The trend today is to frame studio photographs place rubber cushions on tool stands which tend to rattle; and, if there is a workshop door, keep it closed when a machine is operating.

If there are children in the family, keep power tools locked when you aren't there. This can be somewhat of a nuisance if you have a number of such tools, which is a good reason for enclosing the workshop area so that the door can be closed.

Bandsaw Bench Should Be Firm

By ANDY LANG

The Associated Press

QUESTION: I want to make a wooden stand for a second-hand bandsaw I bought a couple of weeks ago. How high should such a stand be?

ANSWER: First, one of the disadvantages of home-made stands is that they tend to become loose and wobble after a time because of the constant vibration from the power machine. In recent years, more and more of these stands are being made of metal.

But if you wish to make your own of wood, greater strength like oil paintings. If the photographs are black and white, you may want to use a cream-colored fabric mat. If they're in direct color, the mat color can be more bold and not detract from the photograph.

Be sure to relate the size and scale of the photographs to that of the furniture and room. Mix frames sizes in an arrangement, if you wish, or add a painting, barometer or clock to give it interest.

When you're ready to hang your masterpiece, put paper on the floor in front of the wall to be covered. Shove the objects around over it until you get an arrangement you like. Trace around the objects; then tape the paper on the wall as a pattern for driving nails.

If special lighting seems necessary, try strip lighting or spotlights. The latter can be pinned to the ceiling or hidden in plants placed beneath the arrangement.

can be obtained by making it with mortised, lapped or joints other than ordinary butt joints. There's one other way to insure a solidly constructed stand for this purpose. Use metal rods as braces. These rods must be threaded at both ends, so that after they connect parts of the frame, they can be held tightly in place with washers and nuts. The added rigidity given to the frame by these braces will insure many extra years of life to the stand.

As for the dimensions, while the recommended height for a bandsaw stand is 34 inches, you shouldn't hesitate to make it higher or lower depending on your own height. The main thing is that you should feel comfortable while operating the saw.

Since 1952 Michigan State has had nine fencing champions in the Big Ten.

TIGHT FIT

Prevent screws and bolts from working loose on items which get hard wear by loosening and dabbing a few drops of shellac or lacquer on threads. Tighten while coating is still tacky.

Draperies And Curtains Should Be Chosen Wisely

What should the homemaker look for when she selects new draperies for her home? With so many different styles and types of fabrics currently available in both custom and ready-made draperies, the homemaker sometimes becomes confused as to which selection will provide the best value and the maximum beauty for her home.

Several leading manufacturers have helped to simplify the problem of fabric selection by using identifying labels which list the performance characteristics of a specific fabric. But there has been no easy-to-follow guide for the inexperienced seamstress to use to check tailoring details which are equally important to the long life of curtains and draperies.

To aid the homemaker in both areas, the fiber glass division of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, with the help of design consultants, has prepared a six-step guide to make drapery selection easier and more rewarding.

First she should have a general idea of whether plain or patterned draperies are desirable and in the color range which will harmonize with existing room colors. Once she has decided on the suitable pattern or color, she should check the following:

Inspect side hems — blind stitched or two-needle side hems give draperies a smooth hand-finished look. With blind-stitching the hem is turned over and rolled under to conceal stitches. The two-needle hem is turned over twice and stitched on either side so that there are no raw edges to cause raveling.

Check heading — make sure it is washable and will keep pleats looking sharp after many washings. Guaranteed washable headings stay crisp without losing resiliency. They won't wilt or pucker to detract from the appearance of draperies.

Check pleats to be certain that the three fingers of the pleat are actually made from the body of the drapery fabric.

Add up the amount of fabric used in bottom hem and heading. There should be at least six inches total heading and bottom hem to give draperies body and help them hang straight.

Measure width of panel. A full 44-inch fabric, properly side-hemmed, in each panel of a single width drapery, will give enough fullness to drape gracefully in rich, deep folds.

Examine the material carefully. It is a first-quality fabric without imperfections. . . . washable, no-iron fabric that is easy to care for and that won't lose its looks.

When a woman expends money on draperies for her home she hopes and should have some guarantee that they will retain their beauty through many washings and many seasons.

PLANTING DATE IMPORTANT TO STRAWBERRIES

Planned planting of home properties is an urgent necessity for the majority of families. If they wish to receive the full benefits of landscaping, warns the American Association of Nurserymen. No matter what kind of planting is desired, whether foundation, outdoor living area, rose or camelia garden, or fruit production, it should be planned for sound success.

Nurserymen, according to the type of operation, have different methods for assuring the home owner greater success in planning. Many do professional landscape work, with university-trained specialists on their staffs. Mail order firms often advise with planting plans.

Garden centers not only advise, but often have do-it-yourself landscape counters, or departments which draw plans with the actual planting to be completed by the home owner himself. Other nurserymen may call at homes, if desired, to advise on planting.

There is no single system used by all nurserymen, who usually adapt their procedure to the demands of the areas served.

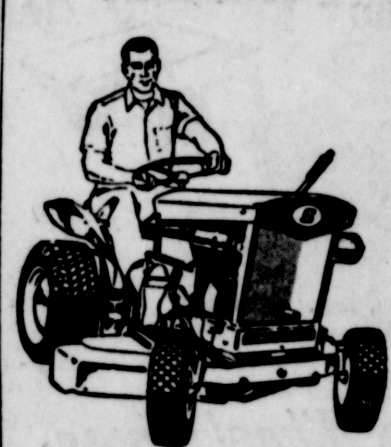

Good sources of planting information also may come from the garden and home magazines, from nursery catalogues, in some cases, and from university extension services, as well as from nurserymen.

Some home owners have great success doing their own planning but by far the majority obtain advice from nurserymen. For professional landscape plans, charges usually are made, although some nurserymen work out a planting design without charge if the plants are purchased from them.

However the planting of the home property is accomplished, the American Association of Nurserymen stresses the need for sound planning to insure full satisfaction from your plantings.

sons. Both the fabric characteristics and the tailoring details are essential to long wearing beauty and a finished effect.

Pamper Suntan While Gardening

Mowing may be a man's job but it's the woman who makes the flowers grow. And to most women, the garden is a source of pride and pleasure.

However, even a few hours outdoors planting and pruning can play havoc with good looks. This year why not make gardening a beauty treatment? There's no reason to wither while the garden blooms. After a full day's work hands can still look as well manicured as the lawn. Complexion can glow and hair sparkle.

A day of gardening is a good way to cultivate a suntan early in the year. Take precautions so you will end up with a glowing color instead of a dried-out complexion. When you skin is first exposed to the sun after winter months, it's advisable to use a suntan lotion for even tanning instead of a lobster-red color. If your skin is particularly sensitive to the sun, invest in a hat with a visor.

Before starting your chores apply a thin coat of petroleum jelly to your hands to keep the skin soft. Too, you will find that grass and other garden stains are easier to remove if hands are protected with a thin film of petroleum jelly. Applied under your nails before weeding, petroleum jelly discourages dirt from collecting. Put a dab on your cuticles, too, to prevent those annoying hangnails.

Exposure to the sun is especially drying to hair. If it is bleached or dyed sun tends to oxidize and discolor it. To prevent these effects and to keep hair shining, wear a bright scarf to cover it or tuck it all in a straw hat. Very attractive and fashionable are the scarf hats — straw or denim with scarves attached. When your hair is exposed to the sun for any length of time be sure to protect it with a hair cream or dressing.

Bulbs Will Bloom For Many Years

The Netherlands Flower Bulb Institute reports the first green shoots of those bulbs everyone so carefully planted last fall are getting ready to break forth into the garden.

Such being the case the NBI people thought it might be a good idea to review some basic rules in caring for the bulbs during the spring blooming season.

Bulbs will flower for many years if they are taken care of reports the NBI. A cardinal rule to follow is to cut the flowers off at the top of the stem when the petals begin to fade. The green leaves will make food for the new bulb that is forming under the ground and next

NEW GARDENS TAKE PLANNING

To make this gardening season something special, try capturing the beauty of your flowers on film. Plant your favorite varieties, and when they begin to bloom, start "shooting" the results. You'll find there's a special fun that goes with photographing your own "green thumb" achievements. And it's amazing how pretty flowers look in pictures.

Start with an easy-to-use camera and a good supply of color film. One model that's recommended for back-yard shooting is Kodak's Retinette 1A Camera—a precision 35-mm. model that operates with snapshot ease. It features a large viewfinder that shows the subject almost natural size within a bright, projected frame. It can be used to take prints in color or black-and-white, as well as color slides.

And here are some reminders to help you in shooting the garden scene: See that your flowers look their Sunday best before you start clicking. Dried leaves and blossoms should be removed. If you're cutting away dead blossoms on roses or other flowers where there is a relatively large stem, cut away from the camera position. If the cut stem of a rose shows, it becomes a distracting white dot in your picture.

It's a good idea also, to clean up the ground around the flower to be photographed as much as possible, and to break up any large lumps of soil.

The sky, lawns and the bare earth provide natural backdrops for your photographs. Or for variety, use some inexpensive poster boards as backgrounds. Your neighborhood stationery store or art supply store can offer you a selection of colors, so you can choose the shades that compliment your flowers best.

You won't need a lot of money's flower will grow out of this new bulb.

Do not cut leaves until they turn brown and dry, warns the NBI. The bulbs can be left in the ground.

If the area is wanted for other plantings, lift the plants and set them down somewhere else in the garden. Then, after the leaves have dried, lift the bulbs, shake off loose soil, and store the bulbs through the summer in a cool dry place.

If different or more colors are desired next year your dealer will be glad to show you pictures, in color, of many varieties of tulips, daffodils and hyacinths that can be planted next fall.

Says East Germans To Act On Fliers

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko said Friday that the fate of three U.S. fliers shot down in East Germany is "a matter for the East German Democratic Republic."

At the same time, Gromyko expressed Soviet concern about border violations and said that Moscow still wants better relations with the United States.

Gromyko is winding up an official visit to Sweden. He spoke at a news conference.

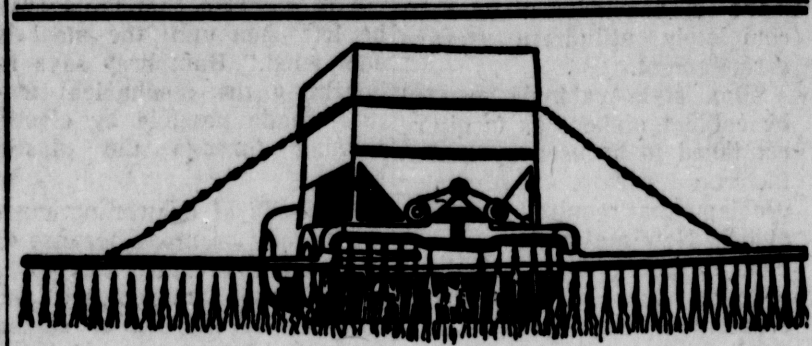

Gromyko's comment that the fliers were a matter for the East German government was a standard Soviet reaction. The Soviets never miss a chance to assert the East German regime is a sovereign government.

The United States and its

North Atlantic allies in turn refuse to deal with the East German government, contending the Soviet Union is still the occupation authority in East Germany.

Primed wood sidings and suggestions for their use are readily available at local retail lumber dealers.

Apple Tasters Test Apples At Geneva Fruit Station

By EARL ARONSON
The Associated Press

One of the biggest problems on one of the world's biggest fruit breeding farms is tasting apples.

The scene is the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva. The station breeds so many varieties of apples that each tree is different, says Paris Trail of the staff.

This creates quite a problem in the fall. The apples aren't anywhere near uniform enough to be processed commercially, and the station is afraid to let the public pick them, lest the trees be damaged. So most of the apples rot.

The apples are tasted, however, by the breeders, who find it a tough chore. Why?

NOT VERY SWEET
First growth apples are not very sweet and, Trail says, have a tendency to bite back. After half a day of testing, your mouth is puckered and your stomach aches.

So the breeders take turns tasting for each other. There is a first-growth exception at the fruit station. It is strawberries. The first growth berries are reported unbelievably good.

The station's efforts extend in many directions. Work is going on to find a cucumber that won't turn sour, as well as disease resistant strains; biological rather than chemical control of insects, an important project considering the "Silent Spring" uproar about chemicals. Some of the controls involve natural virus disease which kills insects such as the cabbage looper, leaf rollers, Japanese beetles and chafers. The insect killer is made with ground-up grubs already affected by the disease.

Of course, one scientist noted, the bacterium-diseased grubs used to produce this method of control are, in a sense, chemicals.

START IN CLAY POTS

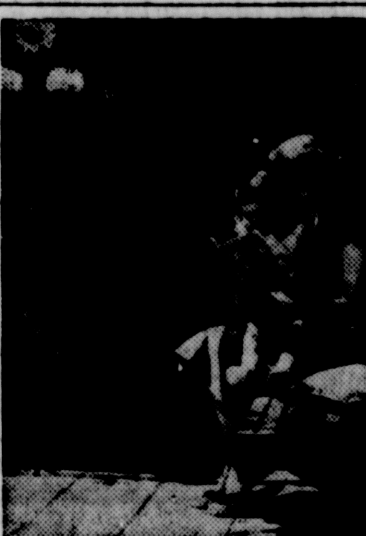

If you enjoy caladium in your garden, late winter is a good time to start tubers indoors in clay pots. Plant tubers so that the tops are half an inch under the soil. Keep them in humid, 70-degree temperature until the ground is warm enough to plunge them outdoors.

A recommended low-growing perennial cover plant is campanula carpatia Improved White Star, which raises star-like, white flowers five inches above the foliage.

Taller perennials that are easy to grow are coreopsis and gaillardia. Coreopsis is bright

The night shift is to a trundle bed unit that works overtime in providing not only sleep space for two, but also storage area, shelves, and a drop-down desk. Bed "trundles" out of sight so desk can function during the day. It's built of Western pine region wood.

FAMILY FAVORS PATIO, DECKS

With growing emphasis on outdoor living, the areas that serve this way of life are becoming increasingly important.

Not too long ago, outdoor living meant a front or side porch. But the porch is rapidly disappearing from the scene, since nowadays, the porch is often closed for year-round living and called a family room.

The popular outdoors living rooms are now patios and decks. The patio has come to mean any outdoor living area. The deck is a variation of the patio — really a wooden — yellow and gaillardia is bright and dark red, orange and yellow.

GIVES 2 SETS

The perennial delphinium gives you two sets of blooms each year. After the first flowers have gone by, cut the stems (before seed pods form) to about a foot above the ground, thus retaining a few leaves to help promote growth. When new leaves have developed, remove the remainder of the old stalks.

There is a good reason to keep a few old leaves. If you don't, the plant may die. And rust may develop if you don't get rid of the old leaves later.

Many of the old delphinium are more rugged than the newer Pacific hybrids, which dislike heavy soil that is not adequately drained.

Not many insects bother delphinium. One pest, however, is the cyclamen mite, which may be controlled with kelthane. To inhibit mildew, spray with phaltan or actidione.

These may be merely open areas exposed to the sun completely. However, an overhead sunshade of wood can be designed to seem an extension from the house roof. This provides an area both shaded and secure from showers for added patio or deck pleasure.

ADJACENT AREA

Adjacent areas can then be covered with an open sunshade that consists of a decorative wood pattern. Or a vertical sunshade such as a fence or louvered baffle can set off one area from another.

A deck need not be adjacent to a house level, although it adds convenience to have a dining deck near the kitchen, or a deck for entertaining as an extension of the living room to facilitate the flow of traffic and conversation.

Any site in the garden that appeals to the individual family may be chosen for a deck — a private sunning corner, on top of the garage, or adjacent to the garage or carport. You could even build a deck on stilts — treehouse fashion but without a tree.

One reason for the growing popularity of these wood decks is the trend toward building houses on sloping tracts of land. A deck is an easy way of providing a flat surface where there is none naturally. Such

Canine Cop Takes Feline Chase

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP) — The dogs on Salisbury's police force don't always get their man. One of the dogs recently disgraced himself completely when he forsook the trail of a cat burglar for a mere cat.

The dog was hot on the track of the burglar when the cat crossed his path and off he went. The handler twice pulled him back to the burglar's trail, but twice the dog took off after the cat. Both the feline and the felon escaped.

Wallach Honored By Jewish Group

NEW YORK (AP) — Eli Wallach has been awarded the annual citation of the American Jewish Congress for outstanding creative and dramatic contributions to American culture. The veteran stage-screen star, last seen on Broadway in "rhinoceros," has recently been at work in London on the film "Moonspinners."

Floors above unheated crawl space require insulation. Home owner staples wire mesh to keep blankets of mineral wool in place.

Scouts Reverse U. S. Compliment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Congress of the U.S. in 1916 gave the Boy Scouts of America a charter that, among other things, empowered them to charter other organizations to sponsor Scouting units.

The Scouts recently returned the compliment by chartering the Congress of the U.S. to sponsor an Explorer post for page boys in the House of Representatives.

Improve Your Own Home While Awaiting New Funds

By VIVIAN BROWN

The Associated Press

What can you do to improve your house while you wait for the money tree to bloom?

That's the attitude to take, rather than wishing for something you can't afford right now. Rejoice that you can afford another small improvement that can add to the family happiness and value of your house.

There is always room for one small plan when you own a house and even if you rent one. It's half the fun of running your own little estate.

Take a good, broad look at things around you and decide which project can be worked into your budget right now. Patio? Porch? Swimming Pool?

The improvement you can afford this year may merely be an awning over an open porch or deck. Don't scoff. It may be the best hundred - or - so dollars you've spent in years. An awning can transform an outdoor extension of the house into an intimate, cozy thing. It's as if the house spread out its arms to bring the outside into the fold.

An interesting or large tree, even if it is some distance from the house, can be the base of a patio, offering its outstretched limbs as shade. Properly landscaped with flower borders, this can be a spot that is truly enjoyable. The floor can be gravel or granite chips or even brick.

You can discover other outdoor areas if there isn't a big tree. The side of a sloping lawn offers great possibilities for shady hours and even for sunbathing, although the aim should be to build the outdoor patio where there is some sort of shelter from sun and sudden showers.

CARPORTS CONVERTED

Carports are often converted into patios because there is an overhang above that forms the beginning of a roof so that it can be laced with heavy vines until plans for a more permanent structure are complete.

People living on hilltops need not forego a patio because the ground slopes away sharply. Some of the most interesting patios and terraces may be built where the ground slopes away. Even some distance from the house, the ground may be terraced by erecting a cinder block wall in a free form shape, rectangle or what have you, filling in the area, and outlining it once it is level with a brick or stone wall or a fence that is in keeping with others on the property. Shrubs may then be planted to give the area additional interest and statuary and birdbaths can give it character.

INEXPENSIVE PATIO

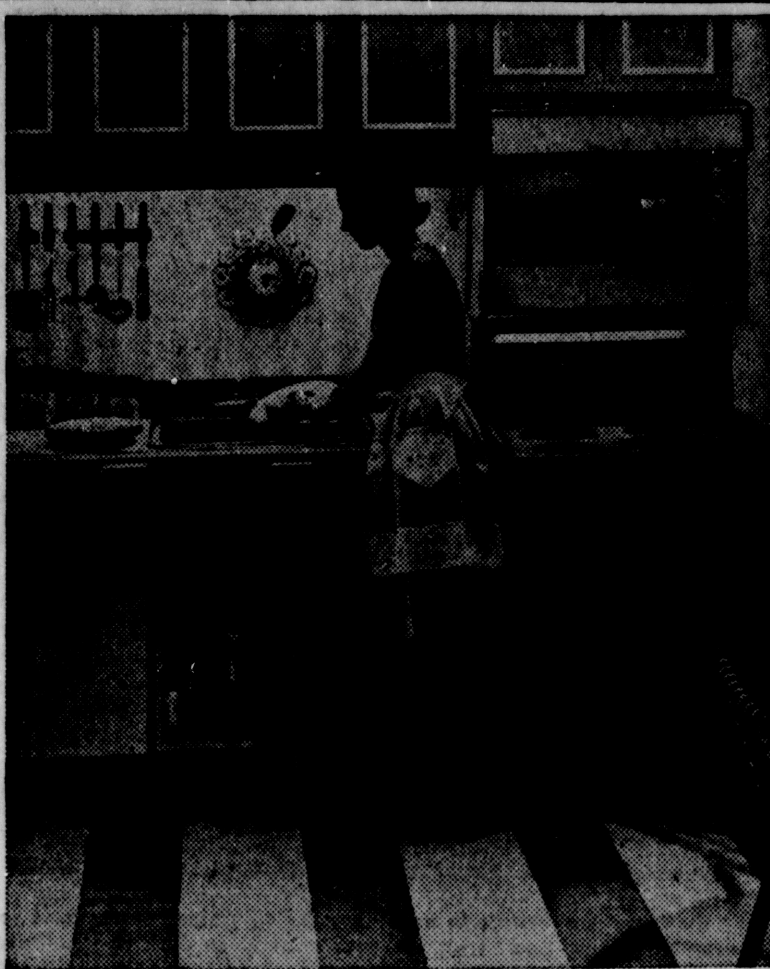

A very inexpensive patio may be built in stages from a poured concrete first-year project. An ideal place for this is between the house and garage, particularly if there are doors on both sides. The second year an awning may be added, or if the plan is to enclose it eventually so that it is useful in winter also, a window-screen arrangement may be the best bet.

Slat, flagstone, granite chips, gravel and brick make good floorings, and the choice often depends on where it is to be used. Granite and gravel will hug even the most irregular land, making it less expensive than other flooring, but it needs some sort of elging as heavy rains will wash it away.

DO-IT-YOURSELF

If the do-it-yourselfer is to put down the patio floor, he should get directions for his product from the manufacturer. Soil must be dug out and sand put in for some floorings. A drainage plan is necessary and a pattern must be worked out. The design should be put on paper first for best results.

We should evaluate everything before making the first move, and that includes working out the site of the patio or terrace so that it is not too windy, too buggy, too sunny or too shady. If the proper restraint is exercised so we do not become so ambitious that the project can't be completed for lack of time or money, this should be a painless experiment whether it is done by a do-it-yourselfer or the experts. We should know where we are going and how much it will cost before we start.

King-sized convenience is available, even in kitchens where space is at a premium, with today's compact appliances. Here, the home-maker has everything, including a good waste disposer.

IN CONTRAST

Look for combinations that contrast the romantic and the dashing in spring sportswear fashions — a sheer top with a tweedy skirt, for instance, or a lace sweater and kerchief worn with tailored pants.

ADDS DRAMS

A fence or screen with vertical louvers effects a dramatic background for a fruit tree espaliered against its textured surface. In addition to creating privacy, fences and screens heighten garden dramas and act as foils for statuary or special interest plants.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

CUTTING CORNERS

When cutting two pieces of molding for a mitered point in corners, make each piece a little longer than necessary, then overlap them where they will meet in the corner. Hold rigidly together, forming a right angle, and saw through both pieces for a snug fit.

PAINT ESTIMATE

Figuring that the average gallon of flat paint covers about 350 to 400 square feet, you can determine amount needed for any given room by adding total area of walls to the area of ceiling. Ordinary size doors and windows need not be deducted.

Do's And Don'ts Of Decorating With Color

Color can work a wonderful transformation in any room — especially when you follow some of the basic rules that have been discovered about its use. Here are "Color Do's and Don'ts" to guide you:

DO USE LIGHT COLORS in a small room to create an impression of greater size.

DON'T USE TOO MUCH pattern, in any room. This can be distracting and tiring.

DO PUT EMPHASIS on warm reds and yellows in rooms that are windowless or face toward the northeast.

DON'T USE BRIGHT COLOR in large areas, as this will detract from the furnishings.

DO HAVE CONTINUING COLOR flow through the house, and use harmonious colors in rooms that adjoin.

DON'T USE TOO MANY cool blue hues in a northeast room or it will seem to be cooler.

DO MIX LIGHT AND DEEP colors in each room.

DON'T USE TOO MUCH red or yellow in a southwest room with large windows, or it will seem warmer.

DO PAINT THE CEILING of a room a deeper color than the walls, if it is very high. This makes it appear lower.

DON'T PAINT GLARING architectural features, such as radiators, to contrast with their background. This will emphasize them.

DO REMEMBER COLORS

Trend Increases In Improvements

In home improvement activity, the trend is up and up! Last year, Mr. and Mrs. Home Owner spent more than 11 million dollars on home improvements — roughly, $70 for every $100 spent on new construction.

These figures, based on reports of the U.S. Department of Commerce, represent quite a change from the ratio of only a decade ago, when $10 was spent for improvements to every $100 on new construction.

STORING LUMBER

Store long lengths of lumber on racks or shelves to keep material off floor, and apply clear sealer or shellac to the grain of each piece to prevent splitting.

NAIL STORAGE

Empty milk cartons, cut down so that they are two or three inches high in front and an inch or two higher in back, make bins for storing nails, screws and other hardware.

are relative and must be seen together.

DON'T USE GLOSSY PAINTS on walls or ceilings of living areas, since such surface creates glare.

DO STUDY COLOR SWATCHES in both day and night light; colors often change under artificial light.

DON'T HAVE ALL SHINY or all rough-textured fabrics in one room — vary them for visual interest.

NAILING ENDS

Prevent splitting by blunting the point of a nail before driving it into ends of wood. Hold nail upside down on firm surface and tap point lightly with hammer. The blunted point will then shear through the fibers instead of spreading them apart.

ENV with ADAMS AG-LIME

What is ENV? ENV is short for Effective Neutralizing Value, which is the basis Penn State University judges the true value of lime. To quote from their bulletin entitled Specifications for Ag-Lime, "Limestone should be bought and sold on the basis of its Effective Neutralizing Value. This value combines its analysis for calcium and magnesium. That product which furnishes, delivered on the farm, the cheapest Effective Neutralizing Oxides per pound is the product to buy". Adams Aglime is the most effective agricultural lime sold in this area, based on evaluation methods recommended by Penn State. See comparative chart at right. It is a scientifically blended high calcium, high magnesium limestone, ground to the proper fineness.

PLANT POISONS FATAL TO MORE THAN SPRAYS

By EARL ARONSON
The Associated Press

Would you say that natural poisons in plants have killed more persons than man-made poisons on plants?

Cornell University botanist John M. Kingsbury says this is so. More than 700 species of plants in the United States and Canada are known to have caused illness or death in man and animals, he estimates.

Children should be taught never to put in their mouths any portions of plants not recognized certainly as food.

You may think you will recognize poison ivy. But aside from the formation of three leaves, the plant may have shiny, dull or hairy leaves and it may grow as a shrub or a vine. Also harmful to the touch are poison oak, a relative of poison ivy, and poison sumac, an erect shrub or small tree with gray bark. This sumac generally is found in swampy areas.

POISONOUS WHEN EATEN

Prof. Kingsbury says most poisonous plants are poisonous only when eaten. These include hemlock, encountered in wet areas or near streams. The most dangerous part is the dahlia-like root cluster.

Two plants with lethal seeds are the precatory or rosary pea, often made into necklaces, and the castorbean, readily available at garden stores. Don't leave these within reach of children.

Leaves of rhubarb, bulbs of hyacinth, narcissus or daffodil and some lily and amaryllis bulbs are poisonous. Also dangerous are berries, seeds or leaves of oleander, poinsettia, wisteria and daphne. Some philodendrons and caladiums are poisonous.

Cornell has extensive facilities for investigating plant poisoning. In one of its gardens are nearly 70 species of poisonous plants.

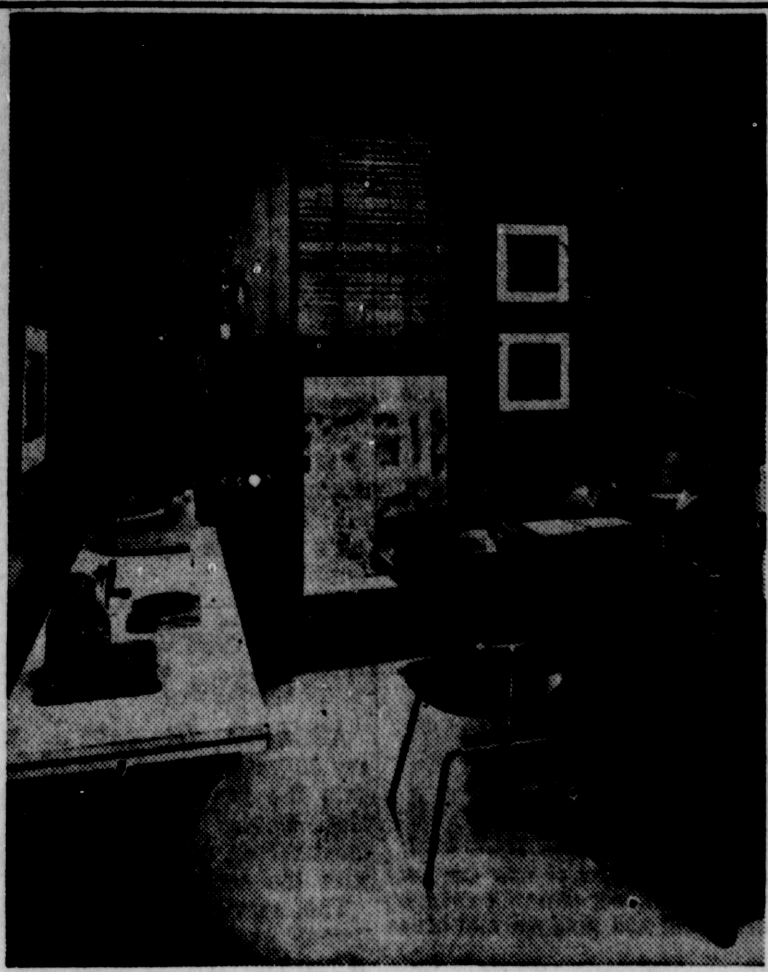

ALL-AMERICA GLADS
Three glads have been given top honors for 1964 by the All-America Gladiolus Selections, a non-profit group.

They are LaFrance, developed by Winston Roberts of Boise, Ida.; Blue Sapphire and Snowsprite, both by Carl Fischer.

LaFrance is pink and white with a frosty texture. It has 7 to 9 ruffled florets on a 5-foot spike.

Blue Sapphire is light blue, an early-bloomer with a white throat. Snowsprite is a dainty miniature with 6 or 7 lacy, recurved white florets with a faint green tinge. The throat has more accented green.

Brighter and better tomatoes will come to you through application of the science of genetics. Scientists are producing redder tomatoes by transferring a specific gene into selected varieties. And other genes are being manipulated to increase the vitamin content of the tomato.

From a room for (above) "junk" comes a combination study and hobby room (right). Walls of the 10-by-12 foot room were covered with wood-grained hardboard paneling, nailed to furring strips. Because of the 10-foot ceiling eight-foot-long panels were supplemented by two-foot lengths. Trim moulding was used for dade.

James MARLOW Reports

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — "My shape is not good; I may be plucky, but I'm not stupid." So said Pierre Salinger, a roundish type. It could have been his epitaph.

But it was just his way of declining to lead newsmen on a 50-mile hike in 1963 when President Kennedy was pushing a physical fitness program.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy had already done the 50 to show how fit the Kennedy administration was.

HIS LONGEST WALK

Therefore, Salinger concluded: "A further demonstration on my part would be superfluous and possibly disastrous."

Thursday he took what may be the longest walk of his life. He resigned as President Johnson's press secretary to try to run for the Senate from California.

At the same time Dean Rusk, secretary of state, was reported planning to quit Johnson's administration after next November's elections.

DENIALS BY RUSK

Rusk, a tallish type with a tall forehead and few giggles, not only denied he would quit next November but said he had no plans to quit at all.

Two more different men than the decorous Dean and the pixie

Pierre would be hard to find; there's been nothing like them in years.

Rusk's three years as secretary of state have been fantastic in the sense he has been almost totally free of criticism. ALMOST UNBELIEVABLE

This is almost unbelievable for anyone who saw the batting his two predecessors got: Dean Acheson under President Truman and John Foster Dulles under President Eisenhower.

The dark-haired, informal, cigar-chomping, witty, piano-playing Salinger got along delightfully with the press.

And he adored the food of his French ancestors, tons of it.

One of his jobs, of course, was to help Kennedy and later Johnson look good. Neither needed much help.

KENNEDY WAS EXPERT

Kennedy was an expert at public relations and Johnson, judging from the glowing public opinion polls, is his own Madison Avenue.

Rusk, who seems to consider himself strictly a foreign affairs technician and not a public opinion molder, stays in the background.

This worked fine with Kennedy and Johnson since they made sure that they, and not the secretary of state, made the big pronouncements in foreign affairs.

USED TO BE DIFFERENT

It was different in the Truman-Acheson and Eisenhower-Dulles days. The secretaries talked up, sometimes too much, and got splattered for it.

How long Rusk stays with Johnson will probably depend on how much Johnson listens to his modest secretary.

Johnson already has said a few things about foreign relations which must have made the studious, careful Rusk wince.

While the merry, breezy Salinger was the White House minister of information, he also presided over some misinformation on small things.

HAGARTY WAS AMAZING

That's when he gave answers off the top of his head and got some details wrong.

As Kennedy's press secretary, he succeeded a formidable man: the tense, driving James Hagerty, who did amazingly at making his boss, President Eisenhower, look good.

Salinger did extremely well, but in a far more relaxed way. You'll have a tough time remembering once when Kennedy goofed in press relations.

DIFFERENT SITUATION

But Salinger had more going

Eisenhower, no intellectual, admitted once he was desultory in reading newspapers. Kennedy ate them.

Eisenhower was courteous with newsmen, but it was a distant courtesy. Kennedy embraced them. Newsmen waiting to see him looked like a headline.

Addition Of Lime Corrects Soil Acidity; Should Be Applied According To Needs

Before any specifications for agriculture lime can be laid down, one must have a clear cut idea of why he is using agriculture lime. Claims have been made that the chief purpose of liming is to supply readily available calcium and magnesium to crops having a large requirement of these elements. In other words, one should use agriculture lime in much the same manner as he uses fertilizer.

This contention does not stand close scrutiny because most acid soils generally contain much more readily replaceable calcium than crops remove. If one treats an acid soil with gypsum (calcium sulfate) which is more soluble than calcium carbonate, this does not make it possible to grow crops on acid soils. The gypsum added plenty of calcium, but did not correct pH.

The evidence is very strong that the chief purpose of liming soils is to correct soil acidity and the adding of calcium and/or magnesium as plant nutrients is secondary. Along with the correction of pH there will be a decrease in the amounts of soluble aluminum, manganese and possibly iron. At the same time there will be an increase in the solubility of phosphates.

EVALUATE PRODUCTS

If the chief purpose of liming soils is to correct soil acidity and all those conditions which accompany acidity, then liming products should be evaluated on their ability to do this job. If magnesium is needed, then a dolomitic limestone should be used—but only if it will effectively correct soil acidity.

In its broadest sense this term means, "How effective in neutralizing soil acids is the liming material you intend to sell or use?" To come to a common understanding of the meaning of this term requires that one understand the conditions under which magnesium may be more effective than calcium and when calcium may be more effective than magnesium.

MAGNESIUM OXIDE

A pound of magnesium oxide will neutralize 1.4 times as much acidity as a pound of calcium oxide. It should then be simple to multiply the MgO times 1.4 and add that to the CaO, calling the total "GaO equivalent." Unfortunately, the dolomitic limestones are less soluble in water or acids than calcitic limestones. This means that the presence of MgO increased the total neutralizing value, but decreases the rate of reaction with soil. This is quite apparent in the case of coarsely ground products. In the coarser ground fractions the greater neutralizing value of the Mg in dolomitic liming material is more than offset by its slower action in the soil.

Fineness of grinding greatly affects the neutralizing value of a limestone. The reaction between limestone and an acid soil consists of a slow dissolving of calcium bicarbonate from the surface of the limestone particles and in turn its reaction with replaceable hydrogen (H+) on the soil particles. In other words, the finer the particles the greater will be the limestone surface presented to the soil.

Hydrated lime made from either calcium and/or magnesium stone reacts quickly and completely with soil. They may be taken as the acme of perfection. However, any limestone particles that are fine enough to pass a 100 mesh screen are just as effective as the hydrates if used in equivalent amounts. By "equivalent amounts" is meant total neutralizing value, i.e. per cent CaO plus (MgO x 1.4). For limestone passing the 100 mesh screen the effective neutralizing value would be equal to the per cent CaO plus the per cent MgO x 1.4.

REACTION WITH SOIL

This is not true for limestone particles coarser than 100 mesh. The rate of reaction and hence the effectiveness of dolomitic limestone separates falls off rapidly as the material becomes coarser. Its effectiveness decreases more rapidly than that of calcitic stone of equal particle size. Calcitic stone, 60-80 mesh, is more effective in raising pH, decreasing replaceable hydrogen, aluminum and manganese than is dolomitic limestone of equal size.

MAGNESIUM VALUE
For these reasons the magnesium present in pulverized stone, which is coarser than 100 mesh, should not be credited with extra neutralizing value. That is, the MgO should not be multiplied by 1.4. In this manner the greater neutralizing value of Mg and its possible nutrient value is counterbalanced by its slower rate of reaction and longer residual influence. With the above in mind, it seems fair to give 60 to 100 mesh material a value of 60 per cent of that of hydrate or a 100 mesh stone. The oxides of Mg and Ca are added together without using the factor 1.4 for MgO.

In evaluating material, 20-60 mesh in size, the same principle holds as for 60-100 mesh material, except that the 20-60 mesh material should be given a value of 20 per cent of that of the 100 mesh separate.

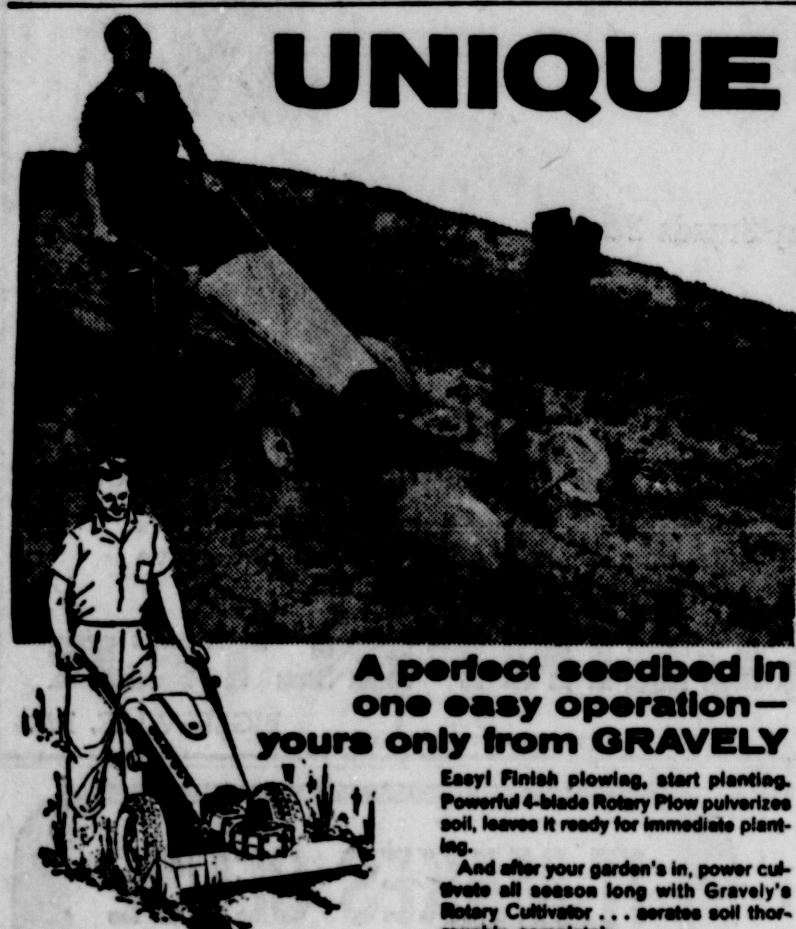

Convenient portability, lightweight are advantages of new compact room air conditioners. This one can be purchased over the counter, taken home in the car, placed in window sill and plugged into house current. It's easy to store, too.

Material coarser than 20 mesh, no matter what its purity, should be given no value. Experiments have shown that 45 tons per acre of this size material did not do as good a job of neutralizing soil acids as 3.7 tons per acre of 100 mesh material.

Rigid specifications of what constitutes agricultural limestone with reference to fineness and analysis is not a realistic way in which to judge agriculture lime. Instead limestone should be bought and sold on the basis of its effective neutralizing value. This value combines its analysis for Ca and Mg oxides, its fineness and the possible nutrient values of Mg.

That product which furnishes, delivered on the farm, the cheapest effective neutralizing oxides per pound is the product to buy. The effective neutralizing oxides may be calculated from a chemical analysis and a screen test. The analysis should show the per cent of CaO and MgO and the per cent passing a 100 mesh screen, the per cent between 60 and 100 mesh, the per cent 20-60 mesh and finally the per cent coarser than 20 mesh. The cost should be that delivered and spread on the farm.

This leaves one decision up to the buyer: Does he require a magnesium-containing product? If so, he can choose an agriculture stone having an MgO content of 10 per cent or more. The calculation of its comparative value would be the same as for any other product. Soil tests for magnesium can be obtained from soil testing laboratories at most land grant colleges and universities.

Paris Festival To Stage Play

NEW YORK (AP) — A morality play by a college professor is to be an American exhibit in the 11th International Theater Festival in Paris this summer.

"Roughshod Up The Mountain" is to be shown after the French visit on a tour of eight European cities and is to be brought here next season.

The author, Arthur C. Lamb, is professor of drama at Morgan State College, Baltimore. The play's struggle concerns a minister's struggle against material temptation.

Paul Richards

Actor's Actor Discusses His Profession

Paul Richards, often praised as "an actor's actor" turned down a Royal Academy scholarship 10 years ago to try movies . . . at first was offered only Westerns. A versatile actor who has appeared on practically every major series, he was the unanimous choice for the Dr. MacThompson star part on ABC's "Breaking Point."

By RUTH E. THOMPSON

"No, studying with Lee Strasberg doesn't necessarily mean you're a method actor. In fact, classical and the so-called 'method' are not at opposite ends of the earth. Call it what you will. You need both . . . you can't have all-technique or all-inspiration. There must be a marriage of the two.

"One learns from many teachers . . . and Strasberg was one of them when I was studying at the theater wing. If I owe any special debt, though, it's probably to Michael Chekov, founder of the Moscow Art Theater with whom I worked on the coast."

Speaking was Paul Richards, who rates that ultimate accolade "an actor's actor" . . . so "with it," you forget he's acting. He's scorable these Mondays starring on ABC's "Breaking Point" (10 p.m.) as psychiatrist Dr. Mac Thompson. And hopefully, a few lucky regional theater audience will be catching him on-stage, too, this spring in a comedy.

YOUNG ABEL LINCOLN

Richards, who'd make a splendid young Abraham Lincoln the next time somebody casts one, has a sensitively - sensible way of making the intangibles of acting considerably more tangible. He also has a delightful philosophical shrug for the nutty things than can happen.

It was just ten years ago that he turned down a scholarship with the Royal Academy to go back to his hometown Hollywood, for a go at films.

"The scholarship was an honor, but the time comes when you must stop formal studying — though you keep learning all your life — and get down to work."

SERVED IN WAR

A psychology major at UCLA following two years of World War II service, Paul had gone on to take a master's degree in drama at UCLA. Then he'd come to New York for post graduate at the Theater Wing, alma mater too of Richard Bone and Coleman Dewhurst. He also racked up an impressive list of major credits in those major live TV shows, "Studio One" and "Kraft Theater," when the movie bug bit.

"So what did I get?

"Silent parts in talking pictures . . . walk-ons in Westerns. And after all that training!"

RODE A HORSE

But "actually it turned out fine after all. I did learn to ride a horse and progressed to playing a succession of villains. I loved it."

Television too made its claims, and busy, busy, busy got to be his rule. Some producers continued to see him as a villain, others as a romantic leading man. But it was Paul himself who saw "Breaking Point" as right for him, asked to audition and was the immediate and unanimous choice of the producers.

PSYCHIATRISTS APPROVE

Now the actor's actor had added a new laurel. He's a psychiatrist's idea of a psychiatrist.

Paul was delighted and touched when one of the country's leading figures in the field broke away from a group lionizing him at a reception to introduce himself to Paul, commend his conception and portrayal and invited him to visit the august university and hospital with which the lion is connected.

The conception and portrayal are not accident. Paul and co-star "Eduard Franz spent days observing various forms of therapy — children as well as adults — through two-way mirrors.

"Then too," he added with modesty as real as it is startling, "I get a thrill working with actors and actresses who were my own idols."

About "Breaking Point": "It's not a sickness show, you know . . . I feel what it's really all about is health."

"It's saying, life is there, just reach out and take it."

"Before I started to work on it, I figured I knew a little about psychiatry, now I know that I know nothing. But I do identify with Mac . . . I am Mac, and the writers have been doing better and better and more and more developing the character as we go along."

"I'm so glad they're not tying me to an office. That circus ground for instance. I'd made a suggestion on that one that was vetoed fast."

"I thought it would be fun to eat cotton candy. After all doesn't everybody at the circus? Then they explained that the stuff could come pretty expensive and I might end up eating nothing but for a couple of days. First, you'd have to hire the machine, and the man. Whenever shootin stopped a new batch would have to be spun and then chewed down to match where we left off if I goofed."

PAUL FORD

Bilko's ex-colonel, Paul Ford, is being promoted to a show of his own on CBS. In "The Baileys of Balboa" — Tuesday at 9:30 commencing in September, Ford will play a widower who owns an island in the middle of a luxurious yachting community. Ford is currently costarring on Broadway with Maureen O'Sullivan in the comedy hit "Never Too Late" which Miss O'Sullivan leaves at the end of April to take up daily television chores on "Today."

Also being promoted to his own show is Robert Vaughn who's currently playing the captain on "The Lieutenant" series. Tuesdays next season (8:30 p.m.) will find him starring as Napoleon Solo, "a dapper, iron-hard agent." Already signed as regulars are Will Kuluva and David McCallum.

The Garry Moore "good luck touch for new talent" is working well for Dorothy London, too. CBS VP Michael Dann says the network and Dorothy have entered into an agreement for the development of a new series planned for presentation during the 1965-66 season.

NBC is returning "That Was The Week That Was" in the fall . . . and is slotting it Tuesdays at 9:30 opposite Paul Ford's new "Baileys of Balboa" on CBS.

With Alfred Hitchcock the time will be the same, 10 p.m., but the night and the network will be different. For its ninth season, "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" moves from CBS to NBC and into the period now occupied by Mitch Miller's "Sing-along" which is being dropped. Goodson-Todman's ayem quiz, "Missing Links" goes from NBC to ABC March 30. Ed McMahon doesn't . . . he's staying on with NBC and Johnny Carson.

Frank Buxton, who currently hosts "Discovery" on Sundays, gets the new 11 a.m. quiz, "Get The Message" on ABC. Bill Cullen and the "Price Is Right" move up to 10:30. All three shows are Goodson-Todman.

CHADDS FORD, Pa. (AP) — Painter Andrew Wyeth and his wife, Betsy, were injured in a motor scooter accident in the driveway of their home at Chadds Ford, Pa.

They were trying out scooters brought home by their son Jamie, 17, and a friend, actor Lee Kinsolving.

Wyeth, 48, suffered a broken left foot. He was released from a hospital in nearby Wilmington, Del., after treatment. Mrs. Wyeth suffered a concussion. The hospital reported she was in fair condition.

ATHENS (AP) — Princess Anne-Marie of Denmark, 17-year-old fiancée of Greece's King Constantine, 23, flew from Athens to Switzerland Friday.

Sources in the Greek court said she would go to her Swiss school to pack and say goodbye to friends, then go home to Denmark. She and Constantine are to marry by the end of the year.

BOSTON (AP) — Mrs. Malcolm E. Peabody, 72, mother of Massachusetts' Gov. Endicott Peabody, plans to join a prayer pilgrimage to protest segregation in St. Augustine, Fla.

The pilgrimage is being arranged by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which plans "kneel-ins" and "pray-ins" at St. Augustine churches the week after next.

Mrs. Peabody is the wife of the Rt. Rev. Malcolm E. Peabody, retired Episcopal bishop of Upper New York State.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Judy Garland didn't have appendicitis after all. She had the flu.

Miss Garland, 40, was released Thursday from Cedars of Lebanon Hospital after a day under observation for abdominal pains. Her doctor said Wednesday she might have to undergo an appendectomy.

CHICAGO (AP) — George H. Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, said in a speech at Chicago that a new method is needed for selecting political candidates.

"Party conventions resemble tribal rituals," said Gallup. "Almost everything about them is phony. The spectacular campaigns and 'give 'em hell' speeches reduce office seeking to the intellectual level of professional wrestling."

Island Defender Lets Crew Land

JUPITER ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — The welcome the near-shipwrecked trio received here was not exactly what they had hoped for. Their boat had been raked by fire, put out of commission and washed toward shore. As the boat neared safety, a man ran onto the beach firing a gun into the air shouting, "Get away. You can't land here."

The story ended on a happy note with a safe landing and no one shot.

Concrete Poles For Light Line

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — One of the strongest power line systems ever erected in the United States soon will be in service here.

Its reinforced concrete power poles vary in height from 85 to 105 feet and are designed to withstand wind gusts of more than 350 miles per hour. The line will stretch three miles, cost $465,000 and have a 30-year life expectancy.

girls after she spotted a television camera: "Imagine the kids in my daughter's school getting a load of me testifying that I want the law to let me bum drinks."

Dam Builders Want Strong Workmen

HARDIN, Mont. (AP) — You have to pass a minor fitness test to get a job on the multimillion dollar Yellowstone Dam being built on the Big Horn River near the Montana-Wyoming border.

A sign near the contractor's trailer at the remote dam site reads:

"No private cars beyond this point."

"If you can't walk from here to employment office, you can't pass the physical anyway."

Missiles Carry Side-Car Labs

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) Atlas and Titan intercontinental range missiles test-fired here often double as space laboratories.

Attached to the side of the rocket are special cylinders carrying scientific experiments to study such things as space radiation, micrometeorites, the earth's magnetic field, re-entry shock and effect of weightlessness on new fuels.
